aesthetic concepts is an exploration of key topics in contemporary aesthetics that arise from the seminal work of Frank Sibley. In 1923, Sibley developed a distinctive aesthetic theory through a number of papers published between 1955 and 1995, a selection of which is entitled Approach to Aesthetics. This is also published by OUP. Sibley's theory is grounded in the important and influential distinction he made between aesthetic and non-aesthetic concepts. In his ground-breaking paper 'Aesthetic Concepts', thirteen specially written essays by British and American philosophical aestheticians bring Sibley's insight into a contemporary framework, exploring the ways his ideas give rise to important new discussion about issues in aesthetics that greatly interested him. These include the differences and relationships between aesthetic concepts and other types of concepts, aesthetic realism and objectivity, methods of aesthetic evaluation in practice and in theory, the boundaries of aesthetics, and aesthetics of nature versus aesthetics of art. This collection will be of interest to scholars in philosophy, art theory, and art criticism.

Reader's comments then along comes your book, lands on my desk like a gift which I have barely put down since it stopped me searching for external answers, helped me to dig into the knowledge, philosophy and way of working which already existed in me. I draw on it all the time for inspiration and a way of grounding me in the tentative moments of working towards a delicate connection with the families I encounter. I have a lot to be thankful to you for. I have now developed a way of working which seems helpful and which enables those around me to find a way forward. But perhaps most of all, I finally feel comfortable and free to be the same counsellor I am with individuals. Hurrah!

Kim Barber, Counsellor Lecturer's comments: A fascinating book which combines couple counselling with person-centred counselling. Will be recommended reading for social work students working with couple relationships. Very readable, useful for students of counselling beyond the title focus of couples and families. The only book on couple and family counselling from the person-centred approach. This book is unique in its articulation of family therapy and the person-centred approach. It is also engaging in the way couples and the families come to life through Charlie O'Leary's acute and sensitive observation. It is an essential text in any person-centred therapy library.

Dave Mearns, University of Strathclyde: Compelling reading. I liked this book. It is intelligent, thought-provoking, occasionally funny, and a delight to read. I warmed to the author's passion for the work of Carl Rogers. All relate counsellors will find something of value. Even the strict psychodynamic practitioners relate. News the author deserves congratulations on his easy-readable style. This will ensure that the book will be read rather than simply browsed by many.

Sexual and Relationship Therapy provides a very good introduction for counsellors in working with families.

British Journal of Guidance Counselling: In this highly readable text, the theory and practice of counselling couples and families are successfully integrated with principles from the Rogerian person-centred approach. In this sense, the book is unique. Although a lot of counsellors in fact practice relational therapy from a person-centred perspective, until now no basic text was available in this field.

Alfons van Steenwegen, Intams review: In this unique book, the theory and practice of counselling couples and families are integrated with principles from the person-centred approach with numerous examples from actual sessions. The book clearly illustrates the key issues that couples and families face and the ways in which the counsellor can help them to resolve these to their own satisfaction. Written primarily from the viewpoint of working with couples and families, issues specific to relational counselling are contrasted to those that arise when counselling individuals or non-related groups. The author then explores the process of relational counselling using the person centred principles of empathy congruence unconditional positive regard and non interference with the clients actualizing tendency
