the international creation of typefaces after 1950 was decisively influenced by the swiss type designer adrian frutiger his univers typeface and the machine readable font ocr b which was adopted as an iso standard are milestones as is his type for the paris airports which set new standards for signage types and evolved into the frutiger typeface with his corporate types he helped to define the public profiles of companies such as the japanese shiseido line of cosmetics in all he created some fifty types including on d avenir and vectora based on conversations with frutiger himself and on extensive research in france england germany and switzerland this publication provides a highly detailed and accurate account of the type designer's artistic development all of his types from the design phase to the marketing stage are illustrated and analyzed with reference to the technology and related types hitherto unpublished types that were never realized and more than one hundred logos complete the picture this second revised and expanded study edition which now has an index makes Frutiger's achievement even more accessible with the rise of digital technology as a design tool and its acceptance as simply part of the tool chest for today's design studios there has been a re-evaluation and return to exploring pre-digital typography design studios no longer flaunt their digital hardware in fact quite the opposite this attitudinal change toward digital technology has coincided with a growing fascination and re-evaluation of those pre-digital skills and processes that had been considered in recent years to be irrelevant mapping the rise of digital technology and examining the infinite possibilities it offers and the profound cultural and technical influence it has had in all aspects of visual communication this text also focuses on our current post-digital age in which the technology itself has become sufficiently commonplace for us to fully recognize what it excels at and what it does less well reinventing print focuses on those skills and processes which have been re-appropriated and irreverently liberated by a new generation of typographers designers and artists raised with digital technology in their pockets and forever at their fingertips in this post-digital age traditional typographic craft is new different and therefore exciting potent and culturally subversive
