in this extraordinary collection of writings covering the period from 1878 to 1989 a wide range of japanese visitors to the united states offer their vivid and sometimes surprising perspectives on americans and american society peter duus and kenji hasegawa have selected essays and articles by japanese from many walks of life writers and academics bureaucrats and priests politicians and journalists businessmen philanthropists artists their views often reflect power relations between america and japan particularly during the wartime and postwar periods but all of them dealt with common themes america's origins its ethnic diversity its social conformity its peculiar gender relations its vast wealth and its cultural arrogance making clear that while japanese observers often regarded the u s as a mentor they rarely saw it as a role model when we start with the wrong question no matter how good an answer we get it won't give us the result we want rather than asking when will this economic crisis be over jim wallis says the right question to ask is how will this crisis change us the worst thing we can do now wallis tells us is to go back to normal normal is what got us into this situation we need a new normal and now in the midst of a crisis affecting every part of society is the time to discover it these are some of the principles wallis suggests we should consider spending money we don't have on things we don't need is a bad foundation for an economy or a family it's time to stop keeping up with the joneses and start making sure the joneses are okay the values of adverts and billboards are not the things we want to teach our children caring for the poor is not just a moral duty but is critical for the common good a healthy society is a balanced society in which markets the government and our communities all play a role the operating principle of god's economy says that there is enough if we share it in rediscovering values wallis equips us with a new moral compass for the future one that draws on some of our oldest and best values and one that will guide us in the city our towns and our neighbourhoods in the years between the civil war and world war i a raw and vibrant city was forged out of the texas blackland prairie by eastern promoters and local opportunists a city of opulent victorian gothic mansions of elaborate cast iron commercial emporiums and of sharecropper shanties where the poor struggled to survive this city its monuments and ideology have today almost totally vanished replaced by a modern metropolis of reflective glass and abstractionist concrete dallas rediscovered examines this city in all its turn of the century splendor through hundreds of period photographs expertly reproduced by a duotone printing process complemented by a lively and informative text you think you know why our government in washington is broken but you really don't you think it's broken because politicians curry favor with special interests and activists of the left or right there's something to that and it helps explain why these politicians can't find common ground but it misses the root cause a half century ago elected officials in congress and the white house figured out a new system for enacting laws and spending programs one that lets them take credit for promising good news while avoiding blame for government producing bad results with five key tricks politicians of both parties now avoid accounting to us for what government actually does to us while you understand that these politicians seem to pull rabbits out of hats hardly anyone sees the sleight of hand by which they get away with their tricks otherwise their tricks wouldn't work dc confidential exposes the sleights of hand once they are brought to light we can stop the tricks fix our broken government and make washington work for us once again the book explains the necessary reform and lays out an action plan to put it in place stopping the tricks would be a constructive inclusive response to the anger that americans from across the political spectrum feel toward what should be our government
