the novel in africa and the caribbean since 1950 examines the institutional and social peculiarities that make fiction produced in africa and the atlantic world since 1950 important to the history of the novel in english africa has experienced dozens of conflicts over a variety of issues during the past two decades responding to these conflicts requires concerted action to manage the crises the violence the political discord and the humanitarian consequences of prolonged fighting it is also necessary to address the long term social and economic impacts of conflict to rebuild communities societies and states that have been torn apart to accomplish this requires the involvement of institutions and groups rarely considered in formal official african conflict management activities schools universities religious institutions media commercial enterprises legal institutions civil society groups youth women and migrants these groups and organizations have an important role to play in building a sense of identity fairness shared norms and cohesion between state and society all critical components of the fabric of peace and security in africa this volume brings together leading experts from africa europe and north america to examine these critical social institutions and groups and consider how they can either improve or impede peaceful conflict resolution the overarching questions that are explored by the authors are what constitutes social cohesion and resilience in the face of conflict what are the threats to cohesion and resilience and how can the positive elements be fostered and by whom the second of two volumes on african conflict management capacity by the editors the fabric of peace in africa looking beyond the state opens new doors of understanding for students scholars and practitioners focused on strengthening peace in africa the first volume minding the gap african conflict management in a time of change focused on the role of mediation and peacekeeping in managing violence and political crises this volume brings together leading scholars from the african continent and beyond to provide a detailed account of the languages of the bantu family the book will be an essential resource for students and researchers specializing in the bantu languages and for typologists and comparative linguists more broadly the texts that make up postcolonial print cultures are often found outside the archival catalogue and in lesser examined repositories such as personal collections the streets or appendages to established collections this volume examines the published and unpublished writing magazines pamphlets paratexts advertisements cartoons radio and street art that serve as the intellectual forces behind opposition to colonial orders as meditations on the futures of embryonic nation states and as visions of new forms of equality the print cultures examined here are necessarily anti institutional they serve as a counterpoint to the colonial archive and relatedly to more traditional genres and text formats coming out of large scale publishers this means that much of the primary material analyzed in this book has not been scrutinized before many of these print productions articulate collective liberation projects with origins in the grassroots they include debates around the shape of the postcolonial nation and the new state formation that necessarily draw on a diverse and contentious public sphere of opinion their rhetoric ranges from the reformist to the revolutionary reflecting the diversity indeed the disorderliness of postcolonial print cultures this book covers local national and transnational cultures from asia africa europe and the americas its wide ranging essays offer a nuanced and taken together a definitive though that is not to say comprehensive or systematic study of a global phenomenon postcolonial print cultures as a distinct literary field the chapters recover the efforts of writers readers and publishers to produce a postcolonialism from below and thereby offer a range of fresh perspectives on the meaning and history of postcolonialism emmanuel neba fuh in this comprehensive chronological compilation and thorough narrative of the history of white supremacy in africa provide an unflinching fresh case that african poverty a central tenet of the shithole demonization is not a natural feature of geography or a consequence of culture but a direct product of imperial extraction from the continent a practice that continues into the present a brutal and nefarious tale of slave trade genocides massacres dictators supported progressive leaders murdered weapon smuggling cloak and dagger secret services corruption international conspiracy and spectacular military operations he raised the most basic and fundamental question how was africa the world s richest continent raped and reduced to what donald j trump called shithole v mbanwie african women writers have come a long way since the 1960s when they were hardly acknowledged or noticed as serious writers in the past four decades their works have been steadily rising in quantity and quality today these writers are seriously redefining images of womanhood providing new visions and reshaping erstwhile distorted characterizations of african women in fiction ernest emenyonu is professor of the department of africana studies university of michigan flint north america africa world press nigeria hebn
