mary church terrell 1863 1954 was one of the most remarkable women of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries active in both the civil rights movement and the campaign for women s suffrage terrell was a leading spokesperson for the national american woman suffrage association the first president of the national association of colored women and the first black woman appointed to the district of columbia board of education and the american association of university women she was also a charter member of the national association for the advancement of colored people in this autobiography originally published in 1940 terrell describes the important events and people in her life terrell began her career as a teacher first at wilberforce college and then at a high school in Washington D.C. where she met her future husband Robert Heberton Terrell. After marriage, the women's suffrage movement attracted her interests, and before long she became a prominent lecturer at both national and international forums on women's rights. A gifted speaker, she went on to pursue a career on the lecture circuit for close to thirty years, delivering addresses on the critical social issues of the day, including segregation, lynching, women's rights, the progress of Black women, and various aspects of Black history and culture. Her talents and many leadership positions brought her into close contact with influential Black and white leaders, including Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, Paul Laurence Dunbar, Robert Ingersoll, Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Susan B. Anthony, Jane Addams, and others. With an introduction by Debra Newman Ham, professor of history at Morgan State University, this edition of Mary Church Terrell's autobiography will be of interest to students and scholars of both women's studies and African American history.

The classic collection of major speeches now bundled with an audio download of Malcolm X delivering two of them, Malcolm X remains a touchstone figure for Black America and in American culture at large. He gave African Americans not only their consciousness but their history, dignity, and a new pride. No single individual can claim more important responsibility for a social and historical leap forward such as the one sparked in America in the sixties when in 1965 Malcolm X was gunned down on the stage of a Harlem theater. America lost one of its most dynamic political thinkers. Yet, as Michael Eric Dyson has observed, he remains relevant because he spoke presciently to the issues that matter today: Black identity, the politics of Black rage, the expression of Black dissent, the politics of Black power, and the importance of consolidating varieties of expressions within Black communities, different ideologies and politics, and bringing them together under a banner of functional solidarity. The End of White World Supremacy contains four major speeches by Malcolm X, including Black Man's History, The Black Revolution, The Old Negro and the New Negro, and the famous The Chickens Are Coming Home to Roost speech. God's judgment of white America, delivered after the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Several of the speeches include a discussion with the moderator, among whom Adam Clayton Powell, or a question and answer with the audience. This new edition bundles with the book an audio download of Malcolm X's stirring delivery of Black Man's History in Harlem's Temple No. 7 and The Black Revolution in the Abyssinian Baptist Church.

The End of White World Supremacy explores a complex issue: integration of Blacks into white America from multiple perspectives within the United States, globally, and in the context of movements for social justice. Rod Bush locates himself within a tradition of African American activism that goes back at least to W. E. B. Du Bois. In so doing, he communicates between two literatures: world systems analysis and radical Black social movement history, and sustains the dialogue throughout the book. Bush explains how racial troubles in the U.S. are symptomatic of the troubled relationship between the white and dark worlds globally, beginning with an account of white european dominance leading to capitalist dominance by white america the endof white world supremacy ultimately wonders whether as myrdal argued in the 1940s the american creed can provide a pathway to break this historical conundrum and give birth to international social justice
