this is the first book that comprehensively examines indigenous filmmaking in north america as it analyzes in detail a variety of representative films by canadian and us american indigenous filmmakers two films that contextualize the oral tradition three short films and four dramatic films the book explores how members of colonized groups use the medium of film as a means for cultural and political expression and thus enter the dominant colonial film discourse and create an answering discourse the theoretical framework is developed as an interdisciplinary approach combining postcolonialism indigenous studies and film studies as indigenous people are gradually taking control over the imagemaking process in the area of film and video they cease being studied and described objects and become subjects who create self controlled images of indigenous cultures the book explores the translatability of indigenous oral tradition into film touching upon the changes the cultural knowledge is subject to in this process including statements of indigenous filmmakers on this issue it also asks whether or not there is a definite indigenous film practice and whether filmmakers tend to dissociate their work from dominant classical filmmaking adapt to it or create new film forms and styles through converging classical film conventions and their conscious violation this approach presupposes that indigenous filmmakers are constantly in some state of reaction to western ethnographic filmmaking and to classical narrative filmmaking and its epitome the hollywood narrative cinema the films analyzed are the road allowance people by maria campbell itam hakim hopiit by victor masayesva talker by lloyd martell tenacity and smoke signals by chris eyre overweight with crooked teeth and honey moccasin by shelley niro big bear by gil cardinal and atnarjuat the fast runner by zacharias kunuk boys life is the official youth magazine for the boy scouts of america published since 1911 it contains a proven mix of news nature sports history fiction science comics and scouting dundes has produced a work which will be useful to both students and teachers who wish to broaden their understanding of modern folklore center for southern folklore magazine it is impossible ever to remain unimpressed with dundes excursions however much one may be in disagreement or not with his conclusions forum for modern language studies often controversial alan dundes s scholarship is always provocative perceptive and intelligent his concern here is to assess the material folklorists have so painstakingly amassed and classified to interpret folklore and to use folklore to increase our understanding of human nature and culture based upon the transactions of a research study group of the psychoanalytic research and development fund which met 35 times during the years 1964 through 1968

zac is an 18 year old with raging hormones unfortunately his hormones aren t getting him anywhere since his most intimate moments are with his own hands at least not for long when zac gets a job at an all boys summer camp where kids could be one with fun and nature and hot guys he meets some counselors and campers of all ages with the same mission in mind putting the wild in camp wilderness this will be a hell of a summer one young zac will never forget drawing on historical records of women s varying experiences as litigants accused criminals or witnesses this book offers critical insight into women s legal status in nineteenth century canada in an effort to recover the social and political conditions under which women lobbied rebelled and in some cases influenced change petticoats and prejudice weaves together forgotten stories of achievement and defeat in the canadian legal system expanding the concept of heroism beyond its traditional limitations this text gives life to some of canada s lost heroines euphemia rabbitt who resisted an attempted rape and clara brett martin who valiantly secured entry into the all male legal profession were admired by their contemporaries for their successful pursuits of justice but ellen rogers a prostitute who believed all women should be legally protected against sexual assault and nellie armstrong a battered wife and mother who sought child custody were ostracized for their ideas and demands well aware of the limitations placed upon women advocating for reform in a patriarchal legal system constance backhouse recreates vivid and textured snapshots of these and other women's courageous struggles against gender discrimination and oppression employing social history to illuminate the reproductive sexual racial and occupational inequalities that continue to shape women's encounters with the law. Petticoats and prejudice is an essential entry point into the gendered treatment of feminized bodies in Canadian legal institutions. This book was co-published with the Osgoode Society for Canadian Legal History.

On the battlefields of World War II with their fellow soldiers as the only shield between life and death, a generation of American men found themselves connecting with each other in new and profound ways. Back home after the war, however, these intimacies faced both scorn and vicious homophobia. The mourning after makes sense of this cruel irony, telling the story of the unmeasured toll exacted upon generations of male friendships. John Ibson draws evidence from the contrasting views of male closeness depicted in WWII-era fiction by Gore Vidal and John Horne Burns, as well as from such wide-ranging sources as psychiatry texts, child development books, the memoirs of veterans' children, and a slew of vernacular snapshots of happy male couples. In this sweeping reinterpretation of the postwar years, Ibson argues that a prolonged mourning for tenderness lost lay at the core of midcentury American masculinity, leaving far too many men with an unspoken ache that continued long after the fighting stopped, forever damaging their relationships with their wives, their children, and each other.
