our understanding of ourselves and the world as historical has drastically changed since the postwar period yet this emerging historical sensibility has not been appropriately explained in a coherent theory of history in this book zoltán simon argues that instead of seeing the past the present and the future together on a temporal continuum as history we now expect unprecedented change to happen in the future in visions of the future of technology ecology and nuclear warfare and we look at the past by assuming that such changes have already happened this radical theory of history challenges narrative conceptualizations of history which assume a past potential of humanity unfolding over time to reach future fulfillment and seeks new ways of conceptualizing the altered socio cultural concerns western societies are currently facing by creating a novel set of concepts to make sense of our altered historical condition regarding both history understood as the course of human affairs and historical writing history in times of unprecedented change offers a highly original and engaging take on the state of history and historical theory in the present and beyond reprint of the original first published in 1871 the publishing house anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost multicultural dynamics and the ends of history provides a strikingly original reading of key texts in the philosophy of history by kant hegel and marx as well as strong arguments for why these texts are still relevant to understanding history today réal fillion offers a critical exposition of the theses of these three authors on the dynamics and the ends of history in order to provide an answer to the question where are we headed grounding his answer in the twin observations that the world is becoming increasingly multicultural and increasingly unified fillion reasserts the task of the speculative philosophy of history as it had been understood by german philosophy the articulation and understanding the historical process as a developmental whole fillion s interpretation engages many recent strands of social and political thought in order to provide a new understanding of current events and possible futures grounded in the understanding of the dynamics of the past and the present provided by kant hegel and marx the result is a rich and timely answer to the question of where our world is headed today published in english we do not perceive the present as it is and in totality nor do we infer the future from the present with any high degree of dependability nor yet do we accurately know the consequences of our own actions in addition there is a fourth source of error to be taken into account for we do not execute actions in the precise form in which they are imaged and willed frank h knight r4 34 p 202 the degree of certainty of confidence felt in the conclusion after it is reached cannot be ignored for it is of the greatest practical signi cance the action which follows upon an opinion depends as much upon the amount of confidence in that opinion as it does upon fav ableness of the opinion itself the ultimate logic or psychology of these deliberations is obscure a part of the scientifically unfathomable mystery of life and mind frank h knight r4 34 p 226 227 with some inaccuracy description of uncertain consequences can be classified into two categories those which use exclusively the language of probability distributions and those which call for some other principle either to replace or supplement providing a rigorous analysis of buddhist ways of understanding religious diversity this book develops a new foundation for cross cultural understanding of religious diversity in our time examining the complexity and uniqueness of buddha s approach to religious pluralism using four main categories namely exclusivism inclusivism pluralistic inclusivism and pluralism the book proposes a cross cultural and interreligious interpretation of each category thus avoiding the accusation of intellectual colonialism the key argument is that unlike the buddha most buddhist traditions today including theravda buddhism and even the dalai lama consider liberation and the highest stages of spiritual development exclusive to buddhism the book suggests that the buddha rejects many doctrines and practices found in other traditions and that for him there are nonnegotiable ethical and doctrinal standards that correspond to the dharma this argument is controversial and likely to ignite a debate among buddhists from different traditions especially between conservative and progressive buddhists the book fruitfully contributes to the literature on inter religious dialogue and is of use to students and scholars of asian studies world religion and eastern philosophy these essays focus on the concept of time in the major religious traditions the theme of time so central to the religious point of view offers a focal point for fruitful interreligious dialogue creativity is a defining feature of contemporary work life who has not taken part in brainstorming sessions read glossy pamphlets about innovation and creativity as important cornerstones of a new business strategy or been made aware of the importance of creative skills for one's career but what does it mean to be creative in and as an organization organizing creativity provides an answer to this question the book builds on the premise that creativity is essentially about ideas every organization is dependent on valuable ideas for solving everyday problems as well as inventing new processes products or services the main argument of the book is that an analysis of organizational creativity should always account for the interdependency of context process and practice based on cultural and processual perspectives it highlights the implications of context process and practice for different aspects of the creative process generating evaluating and facilitating ideas furthermore it reflects on how dominant notions of creativity in the economy and society prevent transformative changes and suggests a radical transformative approach to organizing creativity as an alternative to support and illustrate its argument organizing creativity draws on abundant empirical examples case illustrations and seminal research from sociology social psychology and organization studies it provides us with a multi dimensional perspective and will both further our understanding of and spark critical reflection on the complex interplay of the organizational social and cultural contexts processes and practices of organizing creativity
