no drug deal is worth dying for was the first rule of the street that i chose to call a street smart rule and was one of ten informal rules which guided me through a career as a federal agent with the drug enforcement administration dea in my book breakfast in kersey i detail these ten rules the street smarts that i deduced from actual street experience and incorporated them with anecdotal incidents which traced the highs and lows of my special agent career in tracing my long career the many facets of drug law enforcement are exposed from the exciting and dangerous work of undercover to the rather mundane tasks such as long term surveillance additionally the highs and lows of a federal narcotics career are examined from the thrill of making a big seizure or arrest to the heartbreaking hardships that this job has on a family and personal life and fi nally i off er insights at the frustrations of the job such as inane policies and procedures established by a higher headquarters that tended to hinder investigations and at times agent safety to the petty bickering that existed between local state and federal agencies over drug and or money seizures and jurisdiction interwoven into these facets are anecdotes both humorous and sad but every one of them real allowing a keen insight as to what it was really like to toil in the realm of narcotics enforcement introduction this book was started based on my fight against a corrupt government i served on a community board and ran for several public offices the local city government and city council did not like my campaigns so i became a political target i took a lot of heat from the local government for several years with them interfering with my business and my everyday life i had to put up with their misinformation and defamatory campaigns after a couple of years of being attacked regularly i decided that i should start recording every encounter a couple of encounters is not a big deal 50 encounters start to become a big deal so i started collecting all documents to prepare for a possible suit against the city after several years of taking heat and the government s refusal to let up i figure they were not going to go away the local government made me a political target which destroyed both my reputation and business i had put up with the city creating misinformation about me and my business i was harassed segregated and ostracized and they put me in a position that forced me to consider packing up and moving out of town or to fight back this book goes through many of the battles i went through it also goes through many of the policies that i have sent to local state and federal lawmakers to help promote change i also go through several research analyses that i had conducted i hope that this book will help serve as inspiration for people to keep fighting and if that doesn t work then fight smart
