a subtle and distinguished work by a philosopher renowned for his groundbreaking analysis of human emotions about love the concept of romantic love influenced as it is by the theme within romanticism of alienation and identification suggests an important connection between love and personal identity love in this context recognizes both the sense in which one's beloved is a separate human being and is at the same time a constitutive aspect of one's identity alienation and identity in romantic love explores this connection in the context of discussions of both metaphysical views of personal identity and practical or ethical accounts to this end gary foster discusses the work of influential philosophers in both the analytic and continental traditions as well as the findings of sociologists he explores the love and personal identity relationship through moral and narrative perspectives and examines certain aspects of the modern love experience such as the phenomenon of online dating ultimately foster finds in jean paul sartre's work a promising approach to understanding this connection through his emphasis on embodied identity this book examines the invisibility of romantic love in the legal discourse surrounding modern Australian marriage it looks at how romantic love has become a core part of modernity and a dominant part of the western marriage discourse and considers how the ideologies of romantic love are or are not replicated in the legal meaning of marriage this examination raises two key issues if love has become central to people's understanding of marriage then it is important for the legitimacy of law that love is reflected in both the content and application of the law more fundamentally it requires us to reconsider how we understand law and to ask whether it is engaged with emotions or separate from them along the way this book also considers the meaning of love itself in contemporary society and asks whether love is a radical force capable of breaking down conservative meanings embedded in institutions like marriage or whether it simply mirrors them this book will be of interest to everyone working on love marriage and sexuality in the disciplines of law sociology and philosophy this book is both a sequel to author John Taylor's earlier volume into the heart of European poetry and something different it is a sequel because this volume expands upon the base of the previous book to include many more European poets it is different in that it is framed by stories in which the author juxtaposes his personal experiences involving European poetry or European poets as he travels through different countries where the poets have lived or worked Taylor explores poetry from the czech republic denmark lithuania albania romania turkey and portugal all of which were missing in the previous gathering analyzes heady verse written in galician and presents an important poet born in the chuvash republic his tour through european poetry also adds discoveries from countries whose languages he reads fluently italy germany and german speaking switzerland greece and france taylor s model is valery larbaud to whom his criticism with its liveliness and analytical clarity is often compared readers will enjoy a renewed dialogue with european poetry especially in an age when translations are rarely reviewed present in literary journals or studied in schools this book along with into the heart of european poetry motivates a dialogue by bringing foreign poetry out of the specialized confines of foreign language departments
