islam and christianity in medieval anatolia offers a comparative approach to understanding the spread of islam and muslim culture in medieval anatolia it aims to reassess work in the field since the 1971 classic by speros vryonis the decline of hellenism in asia minor and the historical problem making the work accessible to scholars from other fields the first group of essays examines the christian experience of living under muslim rule comparing their experiences in several of the major islamic states of anatolia between the eleventh and fifteenth centuries especially the seljuks and the ottomans the second set of essays examines encounters between christianity and islam in art and intellectual life they highlight the ways in which some traditions were shared across confessional divides suggesting the existence of a common artistic and hence cultural vocabulary the final section focusses on the process of islamisation above all as seen from the arabic persian and turkish textual evidence with special attention to the role of sufism
