in love and money anne manne looks at the religion of work its high priests and sacrificial lambs as family life and motherhood feel the pressure of the market she asks whether the chief beneficiaries are self interested employers and child care corporations this is an essay that ranges widely and entertainingly across contemporary culture it casts an inquisitive eye over the modern marriage of kevin rudd and therese rein and considers the time bind and the shadow economy of care most fundamentally it is an essay about pressure the pressure to balance care for others and the world of work manne argues that devaluing motherhood still central to so many women s lives has done feminism few favours for women on the frontline of the work centred society it has made for hard choices eloquently and persuasively manne tells what happened when feminism adapted itself to the free market and argues that any true definition of equality has to take into account dependency and care for others it is falling fertility above all else which gives women a political bargaining chip of a new and powerful kind policy makers formerly deaf to mothers needs will have no choice but to listen anne manne love and money anne manne shows a depth and range of analysis that is rare in social science writing today her arguments go behind the child care debate behind the work and family tension that is now in the foreground of most australians daily lives to ask the really big questions steve biddulph in love and money anne manne calls on us to imagine a radically different model of social and political life one that centres around care rather than on gendered notions of the autonomous unencumbered individual julie stephens anne manne is an australian journalist and social philosopher who has written widely on feminism motherhood childcare family policy fertility and related issues she is a regular contributor to the age and the monthly her books include quarterly essay 29 love and money the family and the free market the life of i the new culture of narcissism and motherhood how should we care for our children which was shortlisted for the 2006 walkley non fiction prize this collection of 12 new and revised essays on child care and children's services written by leading child welfare historian roy parker draws on his lifetime of research in this area by exploring various topics these essays explain significant political economic legal and ideological aspects of this history from the mid 1850s this unique and lasting review of child care services allows readers to understand how the services for some of society's most vulnerable children have become what they are how well they have met and now meet the needs of those children the collection provides a high quality historical reference resource that will inform and capture the interest of social work and social policy students as well as social and legal historians political scientists and those involved in administration and government struggling with the issues of the day this new fifth edition captures the excitement and relevance of child psychology at the beginning of the 21st century a theme that is exemplified in the text's new subtitle child development in a changing society in addition to extensive research coverage each chapter includes an additional section that relates the chapter subject to social and cultural contexts or implications of research for social policy public practice or societal change this new edition places children child development and the contexts in which development occurs at the center of the discourse thus this edition has a strong balance of theory research and real world application
