contributors from all over europe cover a wide range of person centred issues and provide an insight into a professional network whose contribution to the field is both substantial and significant the person centered approach to counseling psychotherapy and education is about openness to change this book is about encouraging change in the person centered approach a good theory and practice has to be flexible enough to allow a new generation to put its own slants on it this works seeks to question the jargon of the approach such as unconditional positive regard nondirectiveness and nonjudgmentalness however it also offers replacements to those terms it is also about hoping other thinkers and practitioners in the discipline will present their own ideas and thoughts about what it means to be person centered while being within the domain of what has come to be called rogerian should studies of personality be central to communication research should the usefulness of the individual differences approach to interpersonal communication be questioned mccroskey and daly while not negating the value of situational research stress the importance of communication research which focuses on individual differences particularly personality type differences this comprehensive and in depth study will show those who tend to overestimate the influence of the situation that the person is also a critical part of the communication equation in this bestselling book one of america s most distinguished psychologists crystallises the great progress that has been made in the development of the techniques and basic philosophy of counselling carl rogers gives a clear exposition of procedures by which individuals who are being counselled may be assisted in achieving for themselves new and more effective personality adjustments contemporary psychology derives largely from the experimental laboratory or from freudian theory it is preoccupied with minute aspects of animal and human behaviour or with psychopathology but there have been rebels including carl
