this bulletin highlights five millennia of extraordinary artistic production on the african continent twenty one pairings unite masterpieces from the museum s collections of ancient egyptian and west and central african art to reveal unexpected parallels and contrasts across time and cultures the title pays special homage to senegalese scholar and humanist cheikh anta diop whose book the african origin of civilization myth or reality 1974 challenged prevailing attitudes and advocated for recentering africa as the source of humanity s common ancestors and many widespread cultural practices building on diop s premise this volume allows readers to delve into the rich histories and diverse artistic traditions from the cradle of human creativity african origins of monotheism recasts an african knowledge of god in a new and original way it aims to recapture concepts of god as originally reflected upon by pristine african religious thinkers muzorewa is seeking after the traditional african understandings of the divine which trace their origins back before the rise of judaism christianity and islam monotheism he maintains is the ancient view of god ubiquitous across the continent of africa indeed monotheism comes out of africa the book challenges the way that the idea of god has been manipulated by eurocentric agendas by colonizers enslavers and empire builders all of whom were using god talk to achieve their own personal ends in african thinking the god concept is guided by a sense of the presence of the all pervasive and omnipresent god which has instilled in the people a sense of respect for life at all costs thus respect is not based on a commandment or on fear but on a propensity for affinity this book presents all the latest evidence concerning the african origins of modern humanity for 200 000 years africa was at the forefront of human progress the author smashes all racist misuse of evolution he also takes a detailed look at the implications of an african origin 1 it essentially means that the first people everywhere were of african appearance ancient egyptian hairstyles suited to afro hair appear in europe 30 000 years ago 2 only those outside the tropical and sub tropical regions became of non african appearance the first civilizations arose in the sub tropics 3 humans of all backgrounds have nutritional and lifestyle requirements directly resulting from our african origins this is a little known fact this is where african history should truly start wonderfully written and well illustrated for centuries the origins of civilization have been told from a narrow perspective one that placed africa at the margins of history instead of its foundation african origin of civilization challenges that story and invites readers to rediscover where human progress truly began through archaeology language and historical evidence samuel m goldstein reveals how the early societies of africa especially along the nile developed the sciences architecture philosophy and moral systems that shaped the world the book explores how these innovations influenced later civilizations and how colonial scholarship later obscured their african roots written in a clear and accessible style this is both a historical journey and a reflection on knowledge itself readers will come away with a deeper understanding of africa s role in the making of civilization and why remembering that truth is essential for building a more balanced and honest future black egyptians sets out to prove once and for all that black africans started and ruled the ancient egyptian civilization this is the book to finally solve the ancient egyptian race controversy drawing on a wealth of sources including nuwaupu genetics and archaeology the author combines conventional and unconventional egyptology together to form a unique record of egyptian history and set the stage for black africans to unite under one common creed the presence of africans in asia has been overshadowed by the tragedy of atlantic slavery identifying africans in asia therefore challenges contemporary scholarship within this context the processes of assimilation and marginalisation hinder identification of african migrants this book demonstrates the multiplicity of roles performed by africans and the heights that a few of them reached even in a single generation drawing on a variety of sources both oral and documented this book reveals the extent of the african presence in asia writing african history is an essential work for anyone who wants to write or even seriously read african history it will replace daniel mccall s classic africa in time perspective as the introduction to african history for the next generation and as a reference for professional historians interested readers and anyone who wants to understand how african history is written africa in time perspective was written in the 1960s when african history was a new field of research this new book reflects the development of african history since then it opens with a comprehensive introduction by daniel mccall followed by a chapter by the editor explaining what african history is and is not in the context of historical theory and the development of historical narrative the humanities and social sciences the first half of the book focuses on sources of historical data while the second half examines different perspectives on history the editor s final chapter explains how to combine various sorts of evidence into a coherent account of african history writing african history will become the most important guide to african history for the 21st century contributors bala achi isaac olawale albert diedre l badjo dorothea bedigian barbara m cooper henry john drewal christopher ehret toyin falola david henige joseph e holloway john hunwick s o y keita william g martin daniel mccall susan keech mcintosh donatien dibwe dia mwembu kathleen sheldon john thornton and masao yoshida john edwards philips is professor of international society hirosaki university and author of spurious arabic hausa and colonial nigeria madison university of wisconsin african studiescenter 2000 in a vast and all embracing study of africa from the origins of mankind to the south african general election of 1994 john iliffe refocuses african history on the peopling of an environmentally hostile continent africans have been pioneers struggling against disease and nature and their social economic and political institutions have been designed to ensure survival and maximise numbers these institutions enabled them to survive the slave trade and colonial invasion but in the context of medical progress and other twentieth century innovations the same institutions have bred the most rapid population growth the world has ever seen this demographic growth has lain behind the collapse of colonial rule the disintegration of apartheid and the instability of contemporary nations the history of the continent is thus a single story binding living africans to their earliest human ancestors

sir harry johnston 1858 1927 is remembered as a key figure in the new colonial period of the late nineteenth century this volume forms part of the cambridge historical series and expresses johnston s perspective on the process of african colonization whilst areas of the book are inevitably outdated it remains an invaluable document of the colonial age and its mindset written from first hand experience this 1913 edition includes extensive changes from the 1899 original reflecting the author's wish for the text to remain relevant to the contemporary political context it will be an important resource for anyone with an interest in africa colonial history and historiography

a selective journey into africa's often untold rich history
