4 Description of the Incident

This is the heart of your report. Detail the dangerous driving behaviour using clear concise language. Avoid emotional language and focus on factual observations. For example instead of saying 'He was driving like a maniac' state 'The vehicle repeatedly undertook other vehicles at high speed crossing the solid white line'. Include specific examples of dangerous manoeuvres such as speeding, tailgating, overtaking dangerously, running red lights, using a mobile phone while driving, or driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

5 Witnesses

If you have any witnesses, note their details though their participation is not mandatory for your anonymous report to be processed.

6 Supporting Evidence

If you have any photographic or video evidence, dashcam footage for example, this significantly strengthens your report. However, remember to only submit evidence that you are legally allowed to record and submit.

Submitting Your Report The Anonymous Pathway

The DVLA doesn't have a dedicated anonymous online portal for reporting dangerous driving. However, you can achieve anonymity by carefully crafting your report, ensuring you don't include any personally identifiable information within your communication. The best approach is to contact the DVLA via phone or post, clearly stating the information you've compiled. Be calm and professional in your communication. Emphasize the safety risks involved. Your report will be reviewed and investigated, and the information will be treated confidentially. The DVLA's primary concern is road safety, and they will appreciate your contribution to that objective.

The Ripple Effect Your Impact on Road Safety

Your contribution, though anonymous, creates a ripple effect. It's a small stone cast into a still pond, creating everwidening circles of improved road safety. Your report isn't just about one incident; it's about contributing to a broader effort to tackle dangerous driving behaviour and promote responsible road usage. Remember, every report matters. By taking action, you become an active participant in making our roads safer for everyone. You transform from a passive observer to an active contributor, a silent protector on our shared highways.
