Janet Giltrow's Academic Writing: Writing and Reading in the Disciplines has been widely acclaimed in all its editions as a superb textbook and an important contribution to the pedagogy of introducing university and college students to the conventions of writing in an academic milieu. Giltrow draws meaningfully on theory, especially genre theory, while using specific texts to keep the discussion grounded in the particular. Exercises throughout help students to interpret, summarize, analyze, and compare examples of academic and scholarly writing. The book is intended to demystify scholarly genres, shedding light on their discursive conventions and on academic readers' expectations and values. Academic Writing: An Introduction is a concise version of the full work, designed to be more compact and accessible for use in one-term writing courses. This new edition has been revised throughout and contains many new exercises, updated examples, an expanded discussion of research writing in the sciences, new glossary entries, and a new section on research ethics and the moral compass of the disciplines.

Academic Writing: Step by Step offers a new methodology for teaching academic writing, informed by discourse analysis and genre theory and by recent research in text analysis. It focuses on types of texts purposively written for particular contexts where writers introduce and contextualize research findings and new knowledge while presenting their own points of view in relation to those of others. The book promotes learning by doing, engaging research writers with authentic materials as models of good practice. The book begins by examining what academic writers do in planning their writing and how they implement these plans in their own writing practice. The book draws on accessible articles presenting popular science topics of current interest to illustrate and practice the processes involved in developing and writing an academic essay or research paper. Step by step, each unit in Academic Writing: Step by Step involves the user in guided hands-on practical analysis of an exemplar text. This analysis forms the basis for a sequence of learning activities directing students to engage with the text, moving from analysis (reading for intent) to composition (writing with intent). In this structured process, students acquire a critical understanding of the components of research and essay writing to underpin their own writing. Support for students' analysis and writing of texts includes pre-reading, while-reading, and post-reading activities. These activities are linked to practice in the recognition and use of words in context, grammar in context, and distinctive features of text types. Each unit contains many interactive tasks and closes with a substantive writing assignment reinforcing at least one component of academic writing highlighted in the unit. The book's research-based 'big picture' approach, backed up by textual evidence, is effective in developing students' practical knowledge of research and essay writing. This approach is also motivational, empowering students to work in their own disciplinary environments and areas of interest as it engages them in academic reading, analysis, research, and writing. The book is designed as a textbook for academic or research writing courses, and its step-by-step approach makes it usable by university undergraduates or senior secondary students, including those for whom English is a second or foreign language. In addition, its authentic readings and focus on academic and research writing makes it also suitable for graduate-level writing courses in English-speaking and English-as-a-second-or-foreign-language contexts.

The third edition of Introduction to Academic Writing by Alice Oshima and Ann Hogue continues in the tradition of helping students to master the standard organizational patterns of the paragraph and the basic concepts of essay writing. The text's time-proven approach integrates the study of rhetorical patterns and the writing process with extensive practice in sentence structure and mechanics. Features of the third edition: a step-by-step approach guides students seamlessly through the process of writing; clear, succinct explanations help students to understand and apply key concepts and rules; numerous models and varied practice support students at all stages of writing; new instruction and practice in summary writing prepare students for academic work; new 'try it out' exercises give students opportunities to assess mastery of skills; new self-editing and peer-editing worksheets motivate students to revise their work. Introduction to Academic Writing is also available with Criterion's publisher's version, which provides instant online feedback on student writing. Students simply submit their writing online and instantly receive personalized feedback on grammar, usage, style, mechanics, organization, and development. Essays only: students can turn in better writing, and teachers can save time spent correcting drafts. Click on the resources link to order the edition with Criterion's publisher's version. The Longman Academic Writing series consists of Level 1: Fundamentals of Academic Writing, Level 2: First Steps in Academic Writing, Second Edition, Level 4: Writing Academic English, Fourth Edition.

Academic Writing: Now a Brief Guide for Busy Students is a rhetoric designed to cover the basics of a college writing course in a concise, student-friendly format. Anything inessential to the business of college writing has been excluded. Each chapter concentrates on a crucial element of composing an academic essay and is capable of being read in a single sitting. The book is loaded with time-saver tips, ideas for making the most of the student's time, along with occasional warnings to avoid common errors made by student writers. Each short chapter concludes with questions and suggestions designed to trigger class discussion. The second edition has been updated throughout with special attention to making the book even better suited to accelerated and co-requisite composition courses.
