this book explores the relations between china and the palestinian organizations and their development during the period of 1964 1971 it serves as a case study for understanding china s relations with the arab world the superpowers competition in the middle east and the arab israeli conflict in general it offers a compelling retrospective on a critical period at a time when the contours of power and peace in the middle east have shifted dramatically highlighting the importance of building bridges of understanding and reconciliation across the middle east divides it draws on the author s long experience of study research speaking and writing about the arab israeli conflict and jewish muslim reconciliation

when european missionaries arrived in east asia in the sixteenth century they entered ongoing conversations about cosmology and world geography soon after intellectuals in ming china edo japan and joseon korea selectively encompassed elements of the late renaissance worldview leading to the creation of new artifacts that mitigated old and new knowledge in creative ways simultaneously missionaries and their collaborators transcribed replicated and recombined from east asian artifacts and informed european audiences about the newly discovered lands known as the far east all these new artifacts enjoyed long afterlives that ensured the continuous remapping of the world in the following decades and centuries focusing on artifacts this expansively illustrated volume tells the story of a meeting of worldviews tracing the connections emanating from each artifact the authors illuminate how every map globe or book was shaped by the intellectual social and material cultures of east asia while connecting multiple global centers of learning and print culture crossing both historical and historiographical boundaries reveals how this series of artifacts embody a continuous and globally connected process of mapping the world rather than a grand encounter between east and west as such this book rewrites the narrative surrounding the so called ricci maps which assumes that one jesuit missionary brought scientific cartography to east asia by translating and adapting a renaissance world map it argues for a revision of that narrative by emphasizing process and connectivity displacing the european missionary and his map as central actors that supposedly bridged a formidable civilizational divide between europe and china rather than a single map authored by a european missionary a series of materially different artifacts were created as a result of discussions between the jesuit matteo ricci and his chinese contacts during the last decades of ming rule each of these gave rise to the production of new artifacts that embodied broader intellectual conversations by presenting eleven original chapters by asian european and american scholars this work covers an extensive range of artifacts and crosses boundaries between china japan korea and the global pathways that connected them to the other end of the eurasian landmass malaysia is among the most ethnically diverse and culturally rich nations on earth yet much of its cultural wealth lies buried beneath the rubric of its main malay chinese and indian e race e categories the dazzling diversity within and outside these groups remains largely unexplored this book uncovers some of this fascinating diversity through the stories of five little known acculturated ethnic groups in peninsula malaysia the author a malaysian sociologist delivers an insightful and lucid study of these groups with some surprising findings these communities illustrate how much more cross cultural mingling sharing and co dependence there is within malaysian society than we care to recognize admit or celebrate this raises various questions is a similar process of spontaneous inter ethnic interaction possible between larger ethnic groups today how can we foster such acculturation and can it by itself contribute to ethnic harmony the author also discovers that despite their long settlement and deep acculturation segments of these groups are anxious about their future and pine for an indigenous identity what are the implications of this trend for ethnic relations and how can it be resolved this book traces the acculturation journey of these communities and draws lessons for ethnic relations in one of the most complex multi ethnic nations in the world it will appeal to scholars students laymen and visitors interested in migration history culture ethnicity and heritage in malaysia and the region from 1899 until the american entry into world war ii u s presidents sought to preserve china s territorial integrity in order to guarantee american businesses access to chinese markets a policy famously known as the open door before the russo japanese war in 1904 americans saw japan as the open door s champion but by the end of 1905 tokyo had replaced st petersburg as its greatest threat for the next thirty six years successive u s administrations worked to safeguard china and contain japanese expansion on the mainland the currents of war reexamines the relationship between the united states and japan and the casus belli in the pacific through a fresh analysis of america s central foreign policy strategy in asia in this ambitious and compelling work sidney pash offers a cautionary tale of oft repeated mistakes and miscalculations he demonstrates how continuous economic competition in the asia pacific region heightened tensions between japan and the united states for decades eventually leading to the attack on pearl harbor on december 7 1941 pash s study is the first full reassessment of pre world war ii american japanese diplomatic relations in nearly three decades it examines not only the ways in which u s policies led to war in the pacific but also how this conflict gave rise to later confrontations particularly in korea and vietnam wide ranging and meticulously researched this book offers a new perspective on a significant international relationship and its enduring consequences tan ta sen has modestly suggested that as a book to illustrate the peaceful impact of culture contact he is concerned to show how such cultural influences not only led to transmissions conversions and transferences involving inner asian muslims from china and yunnan muslims chams javanese malays arabs and indians but also enabled many chinese in the malay world to retain their non muslim cultural traits in placing cheng ho s voyages in this context the author offers a fresh perspective on a momentous set of events in chinese maritime history professor wang gungwu national university of singapore tan ta sen s book on cheng ho and islam in southeast asia is not the first one on the subject but it is the first book that puts cheng ho s voyages in the larger context of e culture contact e in china and beyond he has garnered numerous sources from published documents to architectural sites and buildings to support his arguments he has done much more than previous scholars writing on this subject professor leo suryadinata chinese heritage centre singapore this long awaited book is welcomed by the academic community tan ta sen has used historical facts to strengthen the argument on the existence of the e third wave e i e e the chinese wave e in the spread of islam in the southeast
