the clash of civilizations has become a common phrase in discussions of us middle east relations this book explores the nature of the friction between the muslim world and western states looking at legitimate perceptions and grievances on both sides involving historical political economic cultural psychological and strategic elements arguing that islam versus the west does not represent the arena of the next global ideological struggle the authors examine specific issues of a bilateral nature that require careful handling to prevent the consolidation of states into opposing blocs they discuss islam s efforts to politically enhance the real power of muslim states and to equalize relations with the west in the strategic arena the enlarged role of islam in the internal politics of muslim countries and the urgency of political economic and social change to break away from traditional authoritarian orders a central theme of the book is that political islam threatens the established order in most muslim countries far more than it threatens the west and that violent confrontation can best be circumvented by integrating islamist forces into the political process

no historian can deny the fact that islam has bestowed upon mankind lots of virtues before islam man would be afraid of every strange unique or powerful thing and would bow down before that but islam dispelled all such notions it taught and convinced man that he is the best of all creatures so he need to be submissive to anyone except his creator it was this concept that created in man's mind self confidence and self respect man remained no longer afraid of nature but determined to conquer the forces of nature islam changed not only the religious and spiritual attitude of man but in fact it changed the whole pattern of human life it brought basic changes in human thought philosophy culture and civilization it showed the social and economic justice it made no difference between man and man black and white have and have notes it declared that all men are equal and there should be no injustice to anyone but justice to all here we have no space enough to describe all the virtues islam bestowed on mankind but in short it can be claimed that no other religion faith of ideology could grant human beings as many virtues as islam did this is not merely a hollow claim but history bears witness to it history speaks well and offers a vivid picture of what islam gave to the world during its fourteen hundred years it also shows how islam treated the world and how the world treated it so those who are interested in human history and who want to know facts about man's journey from adam as to this day must study unbiased islamic history this book is an effort in that direction although concise but it describes at least all the main events of islamic history just from its advent upto date this book is the first volume of the work that is extended to three volumes this volume starts from the advent of islam and ends with the pious caliphs table of contents chapter 1 the world at the advent of islam chapter 2 muhammad the last prophet meccan life chapter 3 muhammad the last prophet madinite life chapter 4 the perpetual teachings pillars of islam the ideal islamic state of madina chapter 5 abu bakr siddiq ra the first caliph chapter 6 umar ibn al khattab ra the second caliph [?] chapter 7 hazrat usman bin affan ra the third caliph chapter 8 hazrat ali bin abi talib ra the fourth caliph chapter 9 hazrat hasan bin ali ra chapter 10 the significance of the pious caliphate
