the development of doris lessing s art from the traditional realism of her early novels to modernist works like the golden notebook and briefing for a descent into hell has been criticised as escapism a detailed formal and thematic analysis of three representative novels shows that the modernism of doris lessing s later work is a result of the author s radicalized understanding of our collective alienation far from indicating a betrayal of her humanistic commitment it is a measure of the sincerity of this author s concern with the ancient dream of free man now a firmly established part of world literature course offerings in many general education curricula african literature is no longer housed exclusively with african studies programs and is often studied in english french portuguese women s studies and comparative studies departments this book helps fill the great need for research materials on this topic presenting the best resources available for 300 african writers these writers have been carefully selected to include both well known writers and those less commonly studied yet highly influential they are drawn from both the sub sahara and the maghreb the major geographical regions of africa the study of africa was introduced into the curriculum of institutions of higher learning in the united states in the 1960s when the black consciousness movement in the united states and the cold war and decolonization movements in africa created a need for the systematic study of other regions of the world between 1986 and 1991 three africans won nobel literature prizes soyinka mahfouz and gordimer and the visibility of african writers increased they are now a firmly established part of world literature courses in many general education curricula throughout north america african writers is meant to serve as a resource for introductory material on 300 writers from 39 countries these writers were selected on the basis on two criteria that there is material on them in an easily available reference work and that there is some information of research value on free sites each writer is from the late studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2003 im Fachbereich Anglistik/Literatur Note 2,5 Universität Rostock Institut für Anglistik 4 Quellen im Literaturverzeichnis Sprache Deutsch Abstract The short stories to room 19 by doris lessing and weekend by fay weldon present two dissimilar woman who have problems to handle their lives in their families as the quotation above shows they have to take over a lot of different roles this is sometimes very hard and demands a lot from the women in my research paper i analyse what the problems in these two families are and how they have arisen moreover i have a detailed look at the attempts the characters make in both stories to solve these problems of course i also take into my analysis some theoretical questions of narrative fiction an extensive comparison of the results i have made in both stories makes up the end of my paper oxford textual perspectives is a series of informative and provocative studies focused upon literary texts conceived of in the broadest sense of that term and the technologies cultures and communities that produce inform and receive them it provides fresh interpretations of fundamental works and of the vital and challenging issues emerging in english literary studies by engaging with the materiality of the literary text its production and reception history and frequently testing and exploring the boundaries of the notion of text itself the volumes in the series question familiar frameworks and provide innovative interpretations of both canonical and less well known works this is the first book to explore the dramatic impact of genetics on literary fiction over the past four decades after james watson and francis crick s discovery of the structure of dna in 1953 and the subsequent cracking of the genetic code a gene centric discourse developed which had a major impact not only on biological science but on wider culture as figures like e o wilson and richard dawkins popularised the neo darwinian view that behaviour was driven by genetic self interest novelists were both compelled and unnerved by such a vision of the origins and ends of life this book maps the ways in which doris lessing a s byatt ian mcewan and kazuo ishiguro wrestled with the reductionist neo darwinian account of human nature and with the challenge it posed to humanist beliefs about identity agency and morality it argues that these novelists were alienated to varying degrees by neo darwinian arguments but that the recent shift to postgenomic science has enabled a greater rapprochement between biological and post humanist concepts of human nature the postgenomic view of organisms as agentic and interactive is echoed in the life writing of margaret drabble and jackie kay which also explores the ethical implications of this holistic biological perspective as advances in postgenomics especially epigenetics provoke increasing public interest and concern this book offers a timely analysis of debates that have fundamentally altered our understanding of what it means to be human the 1970s in britain saw a series of industrial disputes a referendum on membership in the european economic community conflict about issues of immigration and citizenship and emergent environmental and feminist movements it was also a decade of innovation in the novel and novelists often addressed the state of the nation directly in their works in politics and the british novel in the 1970s russell perkin looks at social novels by john fowles and margaret drabble the cold war thrillers of john le carré richard adams s best selling fable watership down the popular campus novels of malcolm bradbury and david lodge doris lessing s dystopian visions and v s naipaul s explorations of post colonial displacement many of these highly regarded works sold in large numbers and have enjoyed enduring success a testament to the power of the political novel to explain a nation to itself perkin explores the connections between the novel and politics situating the works it discusses in the rich context of the history and culture of the decade from party politics to popular television shows politics and the british novel in the 1970s elucidates a period of literary history now fifty years in the past and offers a balanced perspective on the age revealing that these works not only represented the politics of the time but played a meaningful role in them the evil child has infiltrated the cultural imagination taking on prominent roles in popular films television shows and literature this collection of essays from a global range of scholars examines a fascinating array of evil children and the cultural work that they perform drawing upon sociohistorical cinematic and psychological approaches the chapters explore a wide range of characters including tom riddle in the harry potter series the possessed regan in william peter blatty s the exorcist the monstrous ben in doris lessing s the fifth child the hostile fetuses of rosemary s baby and alien and even the tiny terrors featured in the reality television series supernanny contributors also analyse various themes and issues within film literature and popular culture including ethics representations of evil and critiques of society this book was originally published as two special issues of literature interpretation theory in this new edition what was already an expansive work has been updated and further enlarged to include information not only on american and british novelists but also on writers in english from around the world
