this work investigates the close relationship between language and culture it explains key concepts such as social context and cultural authenticity using insights from fields which includes linguistics sociology and anthropology the intensification of contacts between cultures and languages has a major impact on all social spheres today multiculturalism and multilingualism are important elements of the local regional national and global community much of the world s conflict stems from the contrast between globalization and nationalism fuelled by religions racial divisions traditions and other cultural particularities focusing mainly on the situation in central and south eastern europe this book addresses how cultural identities develop through tourism education literature and other social fields and how language and literature teaching should be planned in this context it consists of the following sections language culture and tourism interculturalism multilingualism and approaches to language learning and culture in literature and translation the volume will be of interest to teachers and researchers of cultural and tourism studies linguistics and language learning literary studies and translation while also addressing wider readers interested in contemporary intercultural society this state of the art exploration of language culture and identity is orchestrated through prominent scholars and teachers narratives each weaving together three elements a personal account based on one or more memorable or critical incidents that occurred in the course of learning or using a second or foreign language an interpretation of the incidents highlighting their impact in terms of culture identity and language the connections between the experiences and observations of the author and existing literature on language culture and identity what makes this book stand out is the way in which authors meld traditional academic approaches to inquiry with their own personalized voices this opens a window on different ways of viewing and doing research in applied linguistics and tesol what gives the book its power is the compelling nature of the narratives themselves telling stories is a fundamental way of representing and making sense of the human condition these stories unpack in an accessible but rigorous fashion complex socio cultural constructs of culture identity the self and other and reflexivity and offer a way into these constructs for teachers teachers in preparation and neophyte researchers contributors from around the world give the book broad and international appeal twenty four articles representing a diversity of interests and approaches have been brought together in this revised collection intended to define and develop topics of central interest to language culture and society opening pieces include enduring classic writings by Boas Sapir Whorf Mead and others giving the volume an important historical orientation these contributions form the ground work for the wide sampling of more recent and contemporary works that follows the selections chosen for language culture and society second edition reflect several major themes within the field language in relation to thought and cognition language in relation to the cultural partitioning of the environment language in relation to self as social language in relation to the emergence of language as a sociocultural phenomenon the twelve new contributions included in the second edition combined with the twelve retained pieces from the widely used previous edition form a diverse well balanced and up to date reader the editor a highly regarded linguistic anthropologist has included helpful introductions that point out significant ideas and trace their development publisher this volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity a number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta French Hnuq Italian Japanese Polish Serbian and Spanish among others the contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language the topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume space and time in languages and cultures language culture and cognition hep 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations like other tools language was invented can be reinvented or lost and shows significant variation across cultures it s as essential to survival as fire and like fire is found in all human societies language presents the bold and controversial idea that language is not an innate component of the brain as has been famously argued by chomsky and pinker rather it s a cultural tool which varies much more across different societies than the innateness view suggests fusing adventure anthropology linguistics and psychology and drawing on everett s pioneering research with the amazonian pirahã language argues that language is embedded within and is inseparable from its specific culture this book is like a fire that will generate much light and much heat for courses in language and culture anthropological linguistics and language and communication using data from cultures and languages throughout the world to highlight both similarities and differences in human languages this text explores the many interconnections among language culture and communicative meaning it examines the multi faceted meanings and uses of language and emphasizes the ways that language encapsulates speakers meanings and intentions language not only expresses identities but also constructs them starting from that point language and identity examines the interrelationships between language and identities it finds that they are so closely interwoven that words themselves are inscribed with ideological meanings words and language constitute meanings within discourses and discourses vary in power the powerful ones reproduce more powerful meanings colonize other discourses and marginalize or silence the least powerful languages and cultures language and culture death occur in extreme cases of marginalization this book also demonstrates the socio economic opportunities offered by language choice and the cultural allegiances of language where groups have been able to create new lives for themselves by embracing new languages in new countries language can be a double edged sword of opportunity and marginalization language and identity argues that bilingualism and in some cases multilingualism can both promote socio economic opportunity and combat culture death and marginalization with sound theoretical perspectives drawing upon the work of bakhtin vygotsky gumperz foucault and others this book provides readers with a rationale to redress social injustice in the world by supporting minority linguistic and cultural identities and an acknowledgement that access to language can provide opportunity there is an odd contradiction at the heart of language and culture learning language and culture are so to speak two sides of a single coin language reflects the thinking values and worldview of its speakers despite this there is a persistent split between language and culture in the classroom foreign language pedagogy is often conceptualized in terms of gaining knowledge and practicing skills while cultural learning goals are often conceptualized in abstract terms such as awareness or criticality this book helps resolve this dilemma informed by brain and mind sciences its core message is that language and culture learning can both be seen as a single interrelated process the embodiment of dynamic systems of meaning into the intuitive mind this deep learning process is detailed in the form of the developmental model of linguaculture learning dml grounded in dynamic skill theory the dml describes four developmental levels of language and culture learning which represents a subtle yet important shift in language and culture pedagogy rather than asking how to add culture into language education we should be seeking ways to make language and culture learning deeper more integrated embodied experiential and transformational this book provides a theoretical approach including practical examples for doing so language our primary tool of thought and perception is at the heart of who we are as individuals languages are constantly changing sometimes into entirely new varieties of speech leading to subtle differences in how we present ourselves to others this revealing account brings together eleven leading specialists from the fields of linguistics anthropology philosophy and psychology to explore the fascinating relationship between language culture and social interaction a range of major questions are discussed how does language influence our perception of the world how do new languages emerge how do children learn to use language appropriately what factors determine language choice in bi and multilingual communities how far does language contribute to the formation of our personalities and finally in what ways does language make us human language culture and society will be essential reading for all those interested in language and its crucial role in our social lives the dynamics of language culture and identity are a major focus for many linguists and cognitive and cultural researchers this book explores the inextricable connection that language has with cultural identity and cultural practices with a particular emphasis on how they contribute to shaping personal identity the volume brings together selected peer reviewed papers from the 7th international conference on language culture and mind with other specially commissioned chapters like the conference this book aims to enhance mutual understanding among researchers from diverse disciplinary and theoretical perspectives offering a wealth of insights to a wide range of readers on recent culturally oriented cognitive studies of language singapore has been taken by many researchers as a fascinating living language policy and planning laboratory language and education policy in singapore has been pivotal not only to the establishment and growth of schooling but to the very project of nation building since their inception mother tongue policies have been established with two explicit goals firstly there is the development and training of human and intellectual capital for the expansion and networking of a singaporean service and information economy secondly there is the maintenance of cultural heritage and values as a means for social cohesion and indeed the maintenance of community and regional social capital these tasks have been fraught with tension and contradiction both in relation to the conditions of rapid cultural economic and political change in asia and globally but as well because of the tensions between the so called world language english and singapore s three other official languages tamil malay and mandarin this has been complicated of course by the challenges of vibrant regional dialects and the emergence of singlish as a powerful medium of community life this book will be the first volume to provide a critical analysis of language policy curriculum and pedagogical practices in singapore it will bring together international and national expertise to examine issues of language policies curricula and pedagogies in the light of the intensification of cultural and economic globalization in the last decade and as a consequence of a renewed concern with the linguistic and cultural implications that a multi polar world brings indeed one of the consequences of globalization is the tension between the centrifugal and centripetal forces of tradition and modernity that pull society in opposing directions and that the school is expected to harmonize this book offers a multi dimensional analysis of the experiences of faculty students and staff at a canadian university that emphasizes international education providing an ethnographic lens for understanding globalization and internationalization of higher education on a wider global scale the collaborative work of multiple authors based in different departments and roles within the university offers a holistic picture of current international education policies and practices and how they coalesce to shape the experiences of all affected stakeholders the book focuses on questions of cultural difference and the development of intercultural capital and highlights engagement with english dominance language matters and multilingualism in everyday experiences and pedagogical practices in the institution the contributors address implications for attending to linguistic and cultural diversity in the policies and practices of an anglo dominant university that are applicable to similar contexts worldwide as a self study from a reputed university the book provides valuable insights for higher education program leaders and decision makers to strategically rethink the value and quality of the internationalization activities they engage in their scholarship and creative activities and above all their commitment to ethical internationalization this book offers a multidisciplinary approach to the consideration of aspects of europe s linguistic and cultural heritage the ten contributions explore the relationship between language culture and modern communication either taking europe as a whole or looking at specific countries the authors backgrounds and expertise span a number of disciplines from linguistics sociolinguistics and translation studies to information technology and cultural studies book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved why should we study language how do the ways in which we communicate define our identities and how is this all changing in the digital world since 1993 many have turned to language culture and society for answers to questions like those above because of its comprehensive coverage of all critical aspects of linguistic anthropology this seventh edition carries on the legacy while addressing some of the newer pressing and exciting challenges of the 21st century such as issues of language and power language ideology and linguistic diasporas chapters on gender race and class also examine how language helps create and is created by identity new to this edition are enhanced and updated pedagogical features such as learning objectives updated resources for continued learning and the inclusion of a glossary there is also an expanded discussion of communication online and of social media outlets and how that universe is changing how we interact the discussion on race and ethnicity has also been expanded to include latin and asian american english vernacular this is an interdisciplinary volume that focuses on the central topic of the representation of events namely cross cultural differences in representing time and space as well as various aspects of the conceptualisation of space and time it brings together research on space and time from a variety of angles both theoretical and methodological crossing boundaries between and among disciplines such as linguistics psychology philosophy or anthropology forms a creative platform in a bold attempt to reveal the complex interaction of language culture and cognition in the context of human communication and interaction the authors address the nature of spatial and temporal constructs from a number of perspectives such as cultural specificity in determining time intervals in an amazonian culture distinct temporalities in a specific mongolian hunter community russian specific conceptualisation of temporal relations seri and yucatec frames of spatial reference memory of events in space and time and metaphorical meaning stemming from perception and spatial artefacts to name but a few themes the topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different albeit related point of view in the sister volume space and time in languages and cultures linguistic diversity hcp 36 which focuses on the language specific vis à vis universal aspects of linguistic representation of spatial and temporal reference
