the twelve essays presented in this volume are drawn from the fifth international conference on word and music studies held at Santa Barbara, CA, in 2005. The conference was organized and sponsored by the International Association for Word and Music Studies (WMA) and in its central section explored the theme of word/music adaptation. In these wide-ranging papers, a great variety of cases of intermedial transposition between music, literature, drama, and film are examined. The music of Berlioz, Debussy, Chopin, Carlisle Floyd, Robert Franz, Bernard Herrmann, Liszt, Richard Strauss, Verdi, and pop singer Kate Bush confronts and commingles with the writings of Emily Brontë, Goethe, Nancy Huston, George Sand, and Shakespeare. In these cutting-edge adaptation studies, in addition, four films are discussed: Wuthering Heights, Fedora, Otello, and The Notebook. The articles collected will be of interest not only to music and literary scholars but also to those engaged in the study of adaptation theory, semiotics, literary criticism, narrative theory, art history, feminism, or postmodernism.

Problem-based learning in the college music classroom explores the core tenets of problem-based learning (PBL). PBL is an effective student centered approach in which students learn higher order thinking skills and integrative strategies by solving real world challenges not often employed in music classrooms yet such courses are uniquely situated to advance this innovative pedagogical approach this volume sheds light on pbl best practices in survey and topic based music courses while integrating general education content discussing implementation materials methods and challenges and encouraging readers to think creatively to develop flexible solutions for large scale issues bookended by introductory and concluding chapters that delve into the history theory application and assessment of pbl the text collects classroom tested case studies from eleven contributing authors in music history and appreciation ethnomusicology music and movement music theory and education problem based learning in the college music classroom paves the way for pedagogical discovery in this unexplored area encouraging teachers and graduate students to move curricula goals forward and ultimately to move students toward innovation and engagement fleeing the nazis theodor w adorno lived in new york city as a refugee from 1938 until 1941 during these years he was intensively involved in a study of how the recently developed techniques for the nation wide transmission of music over radio were transforming the perception of music itself this broad ranging radio research was conceived as nothing less than an investigation partly empirical of walter benjamin s speculative claims for the emancipatory potential of art in the age of its mechanical reproduction the results of adorno s project set him decisively at odds with benjamin s theses and at the same time became the body of thinking that formed the basis for adornos own aesthetics in his philosophy of new music current of music is the title that adorno himself gave to this research project for complex reasons however adorno was not able to bring the several thousands of pages of this massive study most of it written in english to a final form prior to leaving new york for california where he would immediately begin work with max horkheimer on the dialectic of enlightenment robert hullot kentor the distinguished adorno scholar reconstructed adorno's project for the adorno archive in germany and provides a lengthy and informative introduction to the fragmentary texts collected in this volume current of music will be widely discussed for the light it throws on the development of adorno's thought on his complex relationship with walter benjamin but most of all for the important perspectives it provides on questions of popular culture the music of industrial entertainment the history of radio and the social dimensions of the reproduction of art
