- 1 Model of Human Occupation MOHO Theoretical Foundation MOHO views human behavior as a product of the dynamic interplay between volition habituation and performance capacity Volition refers to the individuals motivation values and interests Habituation encompasses the routines and habits that structure daily life Performance Capacity represents the physical and mental capabilities that enable engagement in occupations Practical Applications MOHO guides therapists to assess and intervene at multiple levels Personal Level Targeting individual factors like motivation and skills Environmental Level Considering the physical and social context that influences occupational performance Occupational Level Analyzing the meaning and relevance of specific occupations for the client Limitations The complexity of MOHO can make it challenging to fully implement in practice requiring thorough assessment and analysis
- 2 Occupational Science Theoretical Foundation Occupational science explores the nature of human occupation aiming to understand how people engage in everyday activities and the meaning they derive from them It emphasizes the importance of occupation for wellbeing and societal function Practical Applications Occupational science informs practice by Providing a framework for understanding the diverse roles and meanings of occupations in peoples lives Identifying barriers and facilitators to occupational engagement Promoting occupational justice ensuring equitable access to opportunities for meaningful participation in society Limitations As a relatively new field occupational science continues to develop its theoretical and practical implications
- 3 PersonEnvironmentOccupation PEO Model Theoretical Foundation PEO emphasizes the dynamic interaction between the person the environment and occupation The model posits that occupational performance is a product of this complex interplay Practical Applications PEO is used to Understand the individuals unique characteristics including their skills values and experiences Analyze the physical social and cultural context that shapes occupational performance Identify interventions that address the interplay between the person environment and occupation Limitations PEO can be a broad model requiring a thorough assessment of multiple factors It may also lack specific guidance for intervention planning
- 4 Cognitive Behavioral Therapy CBT Theoretical Foundation CBT focuses on the interconnectedness of thoughts feelings and behaviors It suggests that maladaptive thought patterns contribute to emotional distress and behavioral problems Practical Applications CBT is frequently used in occupational therapy to address Anxiety and depression Cognitive deficits impacting occupational performance Behavioral difficulties that impede participation in desired occupations Limitations CBT requires a high level of client engagement and can be timeconsuming It may not be suitable for all clients particularly those with limited cognitive abilities or severe mental health conditions
- 5 Sensory Integration Theory Theoretical Foundation Sensory integration theory posits that the brain receives and processes

sensory information from the body and environment organizing this information to guide motor behavioral and emotional responses Practical Applications Sensory integration therapy is primarily used to address Sensory processing disorders in children Motor and cognitive difficulties in individuals with neurological conditions Regulation of sensory input to enhance occupational performance Limitations Sensory integration therapy is often specialized and may not be appropriate for all client populations It can also be timeconsuming and require specialized training 6 ClientCentered Approach Theoretical Foundation The clientcentered approach emphasizes respect for the individuals autonomy and values It prioritizes collaboration between the therapist and client in identifying goals and developing intervention strategies Practical Applications Clientcentered principles are essential for all areas of occupational therapy practice They promote Shared decisionmaking between therapist and client Empathy and understanding of the clients perspective Respect for the clients autonomy and selfdetermination Limitations This approach can be challenging when working with individuals with limited capacity for selfexpression or decisionmaking Conclusion The application of theories is central to occupational therapy practice Each theory offers a unique perspective on human experience and occupational engagement providing valuable insights for assessment intervention and clientcentered care It is crucial for occupational therapists to have a strong understanding of various theoretical frameworks and their limitations to select and apply the most appropriate theory for each clients needs By using these theories effectively occupational therapists can empower individuals to achieve their full potential and live meaningful lives
