voices of marginality is theoretically grounded in the theology of the diaspora which according to fernando f segovia has been forged in the migratory experience of american hispanics this theological perspective views judean exiles 587 b c e and contemporary mexican migrants as part of a recurring diasporic human experience the present analysis reads across from the exile and return envisioned in the poetry of second isaiah 40 55 to the corridos ballads about mexican immigration to the united states more specifically the diasporic categories of exile and return in second isaiah inform our reading of exile and return in the mexican immigrant corridos conversely the rhetorical ability of these corridos to transmit a collective mexican identity for immigrants in the united states provides a compelling lens for understanding the images of exile and return in second isaiah ultimately both literary productions reflect voices of marginality across modern history refugees have articulated their experiences and wishes against the backdrop of mass displacement brought about by world wars civil war revolution population exchange decolonisation and state formation men and women displaced in different sites from different backgrounds and at different times have played for high stakes they deliberated about what to say and to whom and they sought expected and effected a response refugee voices in modern global history places refugees at the centre of modern history it demonstrates how ordinary refugees understood their experiences of displacement and engaged with institutions that sought solutions to their predicament ranging widely across global contexts to establish what refugees had to say and to whom it shows them to have consistently been purposeful actors making it possible to transcend conventional and hackneyed depictions of crisis by adopting the term refugeedom the authors show how the voices and perspectives of refugees can be incorporated alongside the power dynamics associated with the multiple incarnations of the refugee regime that managed refugees and articulated solutions to their predicament extensive archival research across three continents makes it possible to explain in comparative terms the significance attached to the encounters between refugees and officials in modern europe south asia the middle east east asia and sub saharan africa the result is an original and in depth study of the contrasting responses of refugees to displacement and to the arrangements made on their behalf at a series of critical junctures in the past the question of population migration and diaspora transnationalism in the age of globalization is an area of social sciences deserving much more attention than it has received this book deals with the advent of new ideological currents based on an assumed quote clash of civilizations quote increasingly popular in social economic and political discourses in this regard applicable oriental literature on migration and diaspora formation is comparatively older than what has been produced in the west in recent years thus deserving careful consideration for instance when dealing with transnational communities the concept of qabiil kinship allegiance as a central organizational factor dominates western scholarship instead this book favors taking both western and non western approaches into consideration in order to achieve deeper and richer understanding of the transnational global diaspora condition in order to surmount the dichotomy of essentialist versus non essentialist frames the epistemological approach instrumentalized in this work follows an emancipatory method critically engaging both approaches furthermore the book proposes a theoretical framework analytically connecting western and non western social inquiry hence we should note emile durkheim's scheme of modern society transformation from quote mechanical to organic solidarity quote was preceded by ibn khaldun's binary scheme distinguishing quote badawa quote primitive or pre modern i.e. symbolizing nomadism loyalty and tribalism from quote hadara quote civilization or modern i.e. symbolizing modernity urbanization and individualism finally this book empirically examines how a host country's mobilizing political and structural opportunities or lack of them influence transnational diasporas civic engagement that often include the application of combined formal and informal social economic and political capital in addressing multifaceted challenges emanating from host and homeland environments over the last twenty years or so it seems as if the indian diaspora has suddenly come of age shedding its minority status it has demonstrated its inclination for becoming a majority not in the sense of numerical superiority but of growing up maturing attaining self apprehension and self expression it can now look at itself the host country and the homeland with a critical humor that has not necessarily dulled its passion or lessened the intensity of its engagement moreover the indian diaspora has become an important economic force whose reputed net worth exceeds hundreds of billions of dollars it is at once more mobile and cohesive than ever before what with faster means of travel and communication not only has the old diaspora made inroads into the new but the access of all the scattered peoples of indian origin to india the motherland has also increased dramatically now it actually seems as if this diaspora has an unprecedented ascendancy and leverage both in the host country and the homeland perhaps its days of impossible mourning to use vijay mishra's phrase might at last be at an end
