calendars were at the heart of ancient culture and society and were far more than just technical time keeping devices calendars in antiquity offers a comprehensive study of the calendars of ancient mesopotamia egypt persia greece rome gaul and all other parts of the mediterranean and the near east from the origins up to and including jewish and christian calendars in late antiquity in this volume stern sheds light on the political context in which ancient calendars were designed and managed set and controlled by political rulers calendars served as expressions of political power as mechanisms of social control and sometimes as assertions of political independence or even of sub culture and dissidence while ancient calendars varied widely they all shared a common history evolving on the whole from flexible lunar calendars to fixed solar schemes the egyptian calendar played an important role in this process leading most notably to the institution of the julian calendar in rome the forerunner of our modern gregorian calendar stern argues that this common evolutionary trajectory was not the result of scientific or technical progress it was rather the result of major political and social changes that transformed the ancient world with the formation of the great near eastern empires and then the hellenistic and roman empires from the first millennium bc to late antiquity the institution of standard fixed calendars served the administrative needs of these great empires but also contributed to their cultural cohesion

the trojan war is the foundation of greek history if greek historians had little doubt of its existence they remained extremely sceptical regarding its mythological origin archaeology has confirmed one essential point there was indeed a general conflagration in the greek world around 1200 bce the assumed period of that war which caused the disappearance of two powerful empires mycenaean on one hand and hittite with its vassals on the other hand the inscriptions of ramses iii s year 8 describe actually a general invasion of the mediterranean by the sea peoples a precise chronological reconstruction shows that there was a confrontation between a greek heterogeneous confederation consisting of pirates and a set of vassal kingdoms of the hittite empire such as troy and ugarit which ended with their complete mutual destruction in 1185 bce the climax of the trojan war this conclusion was already that of eratosthenes
