the idea for this book is derived from the scantiness of academic references on the european union s policies towards the black sea relative to this region's officially stated significance for the eu even though the eu plays a vital role in black sea political agendas the eu's cooperation with the region is not extensively covered by academic discussions and literature this is mostly due to the fact that the eu's focus on foreign affairs is mainly associated with the balkans as part the current and potential expansion and the middle east as a direct consequence of the upheaval of the arab spring the black sea region is crucially important for the eu because of the opportunities and challenges that the region presents both politically and socio economically contributions to this book mostly focus on specific issues of eu black sea cooperation from conflict to the environment to democracy and how these particular relationships are perceived within the region as well as through the lenses of stakeholders such as russia turkey and the usa overall the collection focuses on projecting a more efficient role and a holistic strategy for the eu in its approach towards the black sea region testifying to the need for a strong eu presence for this reason the black sea area remains the neighbourhood too close to yet still far from the european union this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal of balkan and near eastern studies stimulated by noah's flood hypothesis proposed by w ryan and w pitman in which a catastrophic inundation of the pontic basin was linked to the biblical story leading experts in black sea research including oceanography marine geology paleoclimate paleoenvironment archaeology and linguistic spread provide overviews of their data and interpretations obtained through empirical scientific approaches among the contributors are many east european scientists whose work has rarely been published outside of cyrillic each of the 35 papers marshals its own evidence for or against the flood hypothesis no summary or overall resolution to the flood question is presented but instead access is provided to a broad range of interdisciplinary information that crosses previously impenetrable language barriers so that new work in the region can proceed with the benefit of a wider frame of reference the three fundamental scenarios describing the late glacial to holocene rise in the level of the black sea catastrophic gradual and oscillating are presented in the early pages with the succeeding papers organized by geographic sector northern ukraine western moldova romania and bulgaria southern turkey and eastern georgia and russia as well as three papers on the mediterranean the volume thus brings together eastern and western scholarship to share research findings and perspectives on a controversial subject in addition appendices are included containing some 600 radiocarbon dates from the pontic region obtained by ussr and western laboratories
