martin griffiths provides a reinterpretation of the terms realism and idealism in international relations through a thorough critical examination of three key figures in international theory hans morgenthau kenneth waltz and hedley bull morgenthau and waltz are traditionally regarded as the grand theorists of realism but this book argues contrary to conventional wisdom that they could more properly be categorized as idealists griffiths contention is that in addition to imagination nostalgia and complacency are also forms of political idealism he argues that morgenthau's work suffers from the shortcomings of nostalgic idealism and waltz's from those of complacent idealism in contrast hedley bull s analysis of international society is based on a more realistic understanding of world politics this is an important book which provides a compelling basis for conceiving international politics as a rule governed arena among states it will be of great interest to scholars and students of international relations
