Question 5 What is a search engine a A type of computer virus b A tool for finding information on the internet c A programming language d A social media platform

Answer b A tool for finding information on the internet

Search engines are our digital librarians. They help us navigate the vast expanse of the 3 internet efficiently locating the specific information we need. Without them finding anything online would be like searching for a needle in a cosmic haystack.

Question 6 What is a computer network a A single computer connected to the internet b Two or more computers connected to share resources c A group of printers connected to a single computer d A collection of software programs

Answer b Two or more computers connected to share resources Computer networks allow computers to communicate and share resources like printers and files. Imagine a network as a community each computer is a resident sharing resources and collaborating.

Question 7 Which of the following is a type of malware a Spreadsheet software

b Virus

c Operating system

d Word processor

Answer b Virus

Malware is malicious software designed to harm your computer. Viruses are a common form capable of causing significant damage. Think of malware as a digital disease that needs to be carefully avoided.

Question 8 What is cloud computing a Storing data on a physical hard drive b Storing data on a network of remote servers c A type of weather forecast d A type of programming language

Answer b Storing data on a network of remote servers Cloud computing is like having a virtual storage facility in the sky. Your data is stored on servers accessible from anywhere with an internet connection. Its flexible, scalable and incredibly convenient.
