this book departs from existing accounts of alan turing s imitation game and test by placing turing s proposal in its historical social and cultural context it reconstructs a controversy in england 1946 1952 over the intellectual capabilities of digital computers which led turing to propose his test it argues that the turing test is best understood not as a practical experiment but as a thought experiment in the modern scientific tradition of galileo galilei the logic of the turing test argument is reconstructed from the rhetoric of turing s irony and wit turing believed that learning machines should be understood as a new kind of species and their thinking as different from human thinking and yet capable of imitating it he thought that the possibilities of the machines he envisioned were not utopian dreams and yet he hoped that they would rival and surpass chauvinists and intellectuals who sacrifice independent thinking to maintain their power these would be transformed into ordinary people as work once considered intellectual would be transformed into non intellectual mechanical work the turing test argument will appeal to scholars and students in the sciences and humanities and all those interested in turing s vision of the future of intelligent machines in society and nature
