built like a piece of fine furniture the traditional Japanese house is universally admired for its clean lines intricate joinery and unparalleled woodworking focusing primarily on a new guesthouse in California this elegant volume shows how a classic Japanese house can be built to offer the warmth and comfort that modern homemakers require Len Brackett rigorously trained as a temple carpenter in Kyoto has spent decades adapting the ancient Japanese design aesthetic to Western needs here he demonstrates step by step how both the traditional live on the floor house as well as models that accommodate furniture can be constructed to provide such modern essentials as central heating insulation computerized lighting systems and the latest electronics this practical and inspiring guide with gorgeous clear photos and diagrams is an indispensable resource for those who'd like to live in a Japanese home for professionals who want to build them and for any reader who delights in Japan's age-old aesthetic traditions

Japanese houses today have to contend with unique factors that condition their design from tiny plots in crowded urban contexts to ever-present seismic threats these challenges encourage their architects to explore alternating ideas of stability and ephemerality in various ways resulting in spaces that are as fascinating as they are idiosyncratic their formal innovation and attention to materials technology and measures to coax in light and air while maintaining domestic privacy make them cutting edge residences that suggest new ways of being at home contemporary japanese architecture has emerged as a substantial force on the international scene ever since kenzo tange won the pritzker prize in 1987 this overview of 50 recent houses powerfully demonstrates japan s enduring commitment to design innovation first published in 2012 routledge is an imprint of taylor francis an informa company illustrates how to connect with and incorporate japanese design traditions into western homes adept at compact living and masters of elegant simplicity the japanese embody the principle of doing more with less at dwell we re staging a minor revolution we think that it s possible to live in a house or apartment by a bold modern architect to own furniture and products that are exceptionally well designed and still be a regular human being we think that good design is an integral part of real life and that real life has been conspicuous by its absence in most design and architecture magazines

Paula deitz has delighted readers for more than thirty years with her vivid descriptions of both famous and hidden landscapes her writings allow readers to share in the experience of her extensive travels from the waterways of britain s castle Howard to the japanese gardens of kyoto and home again to new york city s central park collected for the first time the essays in of gardens record her great adventure of continual discovery not only of the artful beauty of individual gardens but also of the intellectual and historical threads that weave them into patterns of civilization from the modest garden for family subsistence to major urban developments deitz s essays describe how people over many centuries and in many lands have expressed their originality by devoting themselves to cultivation and conservation during a visit to the abby aldrich rockefeller garden in seal harbor maine deitz first came to appreciate the notion that landscape architecture can be as intricately conceived as any major structure and is indeed the means by which we redeem the natural environment through design years later as she wandered through the gardens of versailles she realized that because gardens give structure without confinement they encourage a liberation of movement and thought in of gardens we follow deitz down paths of revelation viewing a bouquet of british parks liverpool edinburgh and london the parks and promenades of jerusalem the moonlight garden of the taj mahal a tuscan style villa in southern california and the rooftop garden at tokyo s mori center among many other sites deitz covers individual landscape architects and designers including andré le nôtre frederick law olmsted beatrix farrand russell page and michael van valkenburgh she then features an array of parks public places and gardens before turning her attention to the burgeoning business of flower shows the volume concludes with a memorable poetic epilogue entitled a winter garden of yellow optimising the use of space inspiring living concepts and layout solutions in the densely populated urban areas of japan small houses with unusual spatial U concepts and surprising layout solutions are emerging on narrow strips of land that would normally be considered unsuitable for home construction yet it's not only this sense of space but also the sensory use of materials and a feel for aesthetics skillfully combined with traditional elements that have fascinated architects outside of japan
