david hopkins analyses the extensive network of shared concerns and images in the work of marcel duchamp and max ernst the greatest names associated with dada and surrealist art this book covers a broad period from c 1912 to the mid 1940s during which the emergence of dada and surrealism in europe and the united states challenged earlier movements such as cubism and expressionism creating scope for the expression of the unconscious fears and desires of artists acutely sensitive to the troubled nature of their times examining duchamp s and ernst s subversion and manipulation of religious and hermetic beliefs such as catholicism rosicrucianism and masonry david hopkins demonstrates the ways in which these esoteric concerns intersect with themes of peculiarly contemporary relevance including the social construction of gender and notions of ordering and taxonomy this detailed comparison of components of duchamp s and ernst s work reveals fascinating structural patterns enabling the reader to discover an entirely new way of understanding the mechanisms underlying dada and surrealist iconography in 1996 physicist alan sokal published an essay in social text an influential academic journal of cultural studies touting the deep similarities between quantum gravitational theory and postmodern philosophy soon thereafter the essay was revealed as a brilliant parody a catalog of nonsense written in the cutting edge but impenetrable lingo of postmodern theorists the event sparked a furious debate in academic circles and made the headlines of newspapers in the u s and abroad in fashionable nonsense postmodern intellectuals abuse of science sokal and his fellow physicist jean bricmont expand from where the hoax left off in a delightfully witty and clear voice the two thoughtfully and thoroughly dismantle the pseudo scientific writings of some of the most fashionable french and american intellectuals more generally they challenge the widespread notion that scientific theories are mere narrations or social constructions
