metaphors for god's time in science and religion examines the exploratory work of metaphors for time in astrophysical cosmology chaos theory evolutionary biology and neuroscience. Happel claims that the Christian God is intimately involved at every level of physical and biological science. He compares how scientists and theologians both generate stories, metaphors and symbols about the universe and asks who is the God who invents me.

21st century dissent contends that anarchism has considerably influenced the modern political landscape. Curran explores the contemporary face of anarchism as expressed via environmental protests and the anti-globalization movement.

the controversy over teaching evolution or creationism in american public schools offers a policy paradox two sets of values science and democracy are in conflict when it comes to the question of what to teach in public school biology classes prindle illuminates this tension between american public opinion which clearly prefers that creationism be taught in public school biology classes versus the ideal that science and only science be taught in those classes an elite consisting of scientists professional educators judges and business leaders by and large are determined to ignore public preferences and teach only science in science classes despite the majority opinion to the contrary so how have the political process and the constitutional law establishment managed to thwart the people s will in this self proclaimed democracy drawing on a vast body of work across the natural sciences social sciences and humanities prindle explores the rhetoric of the evolution issue explores its history examines the nature of the public opinion that causes it evaluates the constitutional jurisprudence that upholds it and explains the political dynamic that keeps it going this incisive analysis is a must read in a wide range of disciplines and for anyone who wants to understand the politics of biology
