this book contains a collection of peer reviewed papers presented at the eleventh biennial modern studies in property law conference held at queen s university belfast in april 2016 it is the ninth volume to be published under the name of the conference the conference and its published proceedings have become an established forum for property lawyers from around the world to showcase current research in the discipline this collection reflects the diversity and contemporary relevance of modern research in property law following a foreword from the keynote speaker at the conference queen s alumnus lord kerr of tonaghmore the chapters address a range of issues from the nature of land law and property rights through claims to the home and digital assets to the growing debate on the nature of public property collectively the chapters demonstrate the vibrancy and importance of property law in dealing with modern concerns across the common

this book examines the english and german version of the numerus clausus principle which holds that there is a closed list of permitted property rights it challenges recent views that the principle renders property law inflexible and unable to accommodate social and economic changes relying on a novel approach combining property theory and comparative research of english and german law it argues that the restrictions the principle imposes on the creation of new property types actually does accommodate social changes through a process of functional transformation of the existing property rights this is a fascinating unique study that makes a rigorous original contribution to property law theory the collections of the advocates library with the exception of its legal books and manuscripts were given by the advocates to the national library of scotland in 1925
