we live in an age of media saturation where with a few clicks of the remote or mouse we can tune in to programming where the facts fit our ideological predispositions but what are the political consequences of this vast landscape of media choice partisan news has been roundly castigated for reinforcing prior beliefs and contributing to the highly polarized political environment we have today but there is little evidence to support this claim and much of what we know about the impact of news media come from studies that were conducted at a time when viewers chose from among six channels rather than scores through a series of innovative experiments kevin arceneaux and martin johnson show that such criticism is unfounded americans who watch cable news are already polarized and their exposure to partisan programming of their choice has little influence on their political positions in fact the opposite is true viewers become more polarized when forced to watch programming that opposes their beliefs a much more troubling consequence of the ever expanding media environment the authors show is that it has allowed people to tune out the news the four top rated partisan news programs draw a mere three percent of the total number of people watching television overturning much of the conventional wisdom changing minds or changing channels demonstrate that the strong effects of media exposure found in past research are simply not applicable in today's more saturated media landscape a comprehensive trusted core text on media's impact on attitudes behavior elections politics and policymaking mass media and american politics is known for its readable introduction to the literature and theory of the field and for staying current with each new edition on issues of new and social media media ownership the regulatory environment infotainment and war time reporting written by the late doris graber a scholar who has played an enormous role in establishing and shaping the field of mass media and american politics and now lead by johanna dunaway this book has set the standard for the course new to this edition extensive coverage of political misinformation the role changing communication technologies and mass media more generally are playing in its consumption and dissemination as well as how the press is handling and should handle reporting on political misinformation especially as it pertains to the presidency elections and crises like covid 19 updated coverage of the role social media and other popular digital platforms are playing or not playing in the effort to stop the spread of mis and dis information on their platforms with special attention to both foreign and domestic efforts to use these platforms to incite violence cause confusion about and or encourage distrust in democratic institutions expanded treatment of rising affective social and ideological polarization in politics with a special focus on whether and how mass media are contributing to these forms of polarization new updates on causes and consequences of expanding news deserts declining local news and rampant growth of hedge fund media ownership up to date coverage of what researchers are learning about the implications of growth in digital social and mobile media use what does it mean for attention to news and politics

new directions in american politics introduces students not just to how the american political system works but also to how political science works la raja brings together top scholars to write original essays across the standard curriculum of american government and politics capturing emerging research in the discipline in a way that is accessible for undergraduates each chapter combines substantive knowledge with the kind of skill building and analytical inquiry that is being touted in higher education everywhere contributors to new directions highlight why the questions they seek to answer are critical for understanding american politics and situate them in the broader context of controversies in research the teaching of american politics follows a well worn path textbooks for introductory courses hew to a traditional set of chapters that describe the founding american institutions the ways citizens participate in politics and sometimes public policy the material rarely engages students in the kind of questions that animate scholarship on politics one hurdle for instructors is finding material that reflects quality scholarship and thus teaches students about why not just what and yet is accessible for undergraduates articles in scholarly journals are typically unsuited for undergraduate courses particularly introductory courses what is needed is a book that conveys exciting trends in scholarship across vital topics in american politics and illustrates analytical thinking new directions in american politics is that book and will be an ideal companion to standard textbooks that focus mostly on nuts and bolts of politics the book features contributions from a top notch cast of active scholars and a highly regarded editor a focus on analytical thinking that addresses questions of causality full coverage of the american politics curriculum short interviews with each contributor on a companion website to help the research come alive and prompt critical thinking questions for students work that draws on the highest quality research in political science but is written specifically for first year undergraduate students there is simply no book like this available to the growing number of faculty who want their introductory american politics course to be a reflection of the political science discipline and not just the nuts and bolt facts of the american political system american gridlock is a comprehensive analysis of polarization encompassing national and state politics voters elites activists the media and the three branches of government this seminal work is the first comprehensive analysis of the media landscape in the mediterranean island of malta it examines the media owned by political parties trade unions and the church and how they successfully compete for audiences with the public and private sectors carmen sammut explores institutional efforts to influence the information flow by means of field observations and in depth interviews in newsrooms these influences are further examined in an analysis of news content and discourse during the referendum campaign for european union membership in a field where literature often overlooks small states media and maltese society takes advantage of the small context to examine the communication circuit holistically observing traits that british and american journalism lost with the growth of media capitalism commissioned as part of the research program of the royal commission on electoral reform and party financing p ii this study presents an analysis of the role of the media in contemporary british politics drawing contrasts between the bbc and itv and between national and regional news programmes it attempts to ascertain the impact of news coverage on voters perceptions attitudes and voting choices
