this edited volume explores the various views on the origins of tetrapods amphibians reptiles birds and mammals views that agree or differ depending in part on how certain fossil animals are classified and which methodology is used for classification eighteen chapters by an international group of paleontologists and neontologists here present current hypotheses emphasizing the kinds of data needed to answer controversial questions as well as the variety of solutions that emerge from different analyses of the same data set the book is arranged in five sections each of which contains an overview essay that either describes the development of various schools of thought regarding the origin of the tetrapod group in question or critically summarizes the arguments presented in the section the first section addresses the origins of tetrapods as a group focusing on lobe finned fishes and early tetrapods next is a section dealing with amphibians followed by one on reptiles the fourth section concerns avian origins and the final section treats the origins and early diversification of mammals with an overall goal of stimulating critical evaluation by the reader rather than providing unequivocal answers this volume will be of particular interest to vertebrate paleontologists evolutionary morphologists and ichthyological herpetological avian and mammalian systematists explores how writers across five continents and four centuries have debated ideas about what it means to be an individual and shows that the modern self is an ongoing project of global history in global origins of the modern self from montaigne to suzuki avram alpert contends that scholars have yet to fully grasp the constitutive force of global connections in the making of modern selfhood alpert argues that canonical moments of self making from around the world share a surprising origin in the colonial anthropology of europeans in the americas while most intellectual histories of modernity begin with the cartesian inward turn alpert shows how this turn itself was an evasion of the impact of the colonial encounter he charts a counter history of the modern self tracing lines of influence that stretch from michel de montaigne's encounter with the tupi through the writings of jean jacques rousseau into german idealism american transcendentalism postcolonial critique and modern zen alpert considers an unusually wide range of thinkers including kant hegel fanon emerson du bois senghor and suzuki this book not only breaks with disciplinary conventions about period and geography but also argues that these conventions obscure our ability to understand the modern condition alpert's scholarship is impressive offering a focused sweep of intellectual history and incisive readings of many important figures and the scholarly literature devoted to them he is a fantastic writer his prose is direct and evocative conveying complex ideas in clear and probing terms this style transforms a long text into a relatively quick and at times gripping read jane anna gordon author of creolizing political theory reading rousseau through fanon through textual and historical analyses and great interpretive abilities alpert shows persuasively that montaigne rousseau emerson suzuki and others separately and together are thinkers not of a western monopolizing the sense of modern tradition but of global pluralist thought his way of reading these thinkers can be a model for others interested in decolonizing and deracializing modern thought while preserving much of the canon with its present membership with its male western european and anglo american membership but alpert has done more through his arguments he has made room for du bois fanon and suzuki to be included in the canon this is intellectually progressive and politically significant and will make a fresh reading experience for many readers peter k j park author of africa asia and the history of philosophy racism in the formation of the philosophical canon 1780 1830
