in clear dark resonant language nobel prize winner toni morrison brilliantly evokes not only a bond between two lives but the harsh loveless ultimately mad world in which that bond is destroyed the world of the bottom and its people unabridged 5 cds toni morrison s beloved is probably the most widely studied work of contemporary fiction both in the united states and abroad the novel appeals to readers across various disciplines as such it is now required reading in courses in english and american literature feminist and multicultural criticism and american history in universities and colleges around the world the novel s universal appeal with its unique structure and compelling story has made it the subject of numerous scholarly essays published in reference journals to make the best of these essays more accessible to university students this book offers a volume of selected essays with a critical introduction and annotated bibliography this series of essays on toni morrison s first four novels the bluest eye song of solomon sula and tar baby is the delightful intelligent collaboration of a white of greek descent demetrakopoulos and a black american holloway in addition to the influence of their respective backgrounds demetrakopoulos is particularly interested in women s studies and jungian psychology and holloway in black studies and linguistics these fields inform their individual contributions the clear writing is free of academic jargon and makes exceptionally good sense very highly recommended to academic libraries especially for women s studies and black literature collections choice this first full length study of the novels of toni morrison is a breakthrough in literary criticism not only from the standpoint of feminist critique but as a biracial bicultural dialogue on literary social and spiritual themes holloway a specialist in black studies and psycholinguistics and demetrakopoulos whose academic interests include women s studies and jungian psychology weave their multidisciplinary interests and divergent experience into an integrated study of toni morrison s novels the authors introductory essays put morrison s work in critical perspective and approach her literary vision in terms of its cultural racial and historical linkages and meanings the novels are then considered chronologically by both authors who each comment freely on the interpretations and viewpoints of the other essay from the year 2011 in the subject african studies african diaspora language english abstract this paper approaches an exploration of two major themes in sula social identity and gender subalternity i would begin with a general presentation of the major points that mark this oscar winning novel and then shift to violently serious disagreements that bear reference to the submissive subaltern position that sula on behalf of every woman of color has to embrace as the novel as well as a bundle of essays and articles explain the protagonist is weary of all that binds her to submission and has thus decided to follow her own way of life the analysis is held from a postmodern perspective i would therefore attempt to build a bridge between the discourse of morrison who is addressing her message in the name of sula and that of postmodernism which is a deviation from representation and a turn towards self reflexivity i am eventually describing the societal tension between sula and her fellow denizens who are caught up in an arena of contest the ground of which is experience and circumstances widely recognized as one of the most significant writers america has produced toni morrison has consistently confounded critics as she says herself she seeks to avoid being like joyce hardy and faulkner in this work rice explores the ways morrison is like and unlike writers such as faulkner he uncovers a complex tension at the core of her work that at once connects her to and separates her from the american tradition
