sten ebbesen has contributed many works in the field of ancient and medieval philosophy over decades of dedicated research his crisp and lucid style and his philosophical penetration of often difficult concepts and issues is both clear and intellectually impressive ashgate is proud to present this thematically arranged three volume set of his collected essays each thoroughly revised and updated volume two topics in latin philosophy from the 12th 14th centuries explores issues in medieval philosophy from the time nominalists and other schools competed in twelfth century paris to the mature scholasticism of boethius of dacia radulphus britto and other modist thinkers of the late thirteenth century and finally the new nominalism of john buridan in the fourteenth century

the series Miscellanea Mediaevalia was founded by Paul Wilpert in 1962 and since then has presented research from the Thomas Institute of the University of Cologne. The cornerstone of the series is provided by the proceedings of the biennial Cologne Medieval Studies conferences which were established over 50 years ago by Josef Koch. The founding director of the institute. The interdisciplinary nature of these conferences is reflected in the proceedings. The Miscellanea Mediaevalia gather together papers from all disciplines represented in medieval studies: medieval history, philosophy, theology, together with art and literature, all contribute to an overall perspective of the Middle Ages.

As a man thinks so is he personally and socially so is he yet. If this is true then as a man thinks has led us into the thick of global crisis. What exactly is it about our thinking that fails us? What has gone so wrong? There are firm reasons why we may hope for new direction. Firstly we have a new view of the connectedness of all things. Never before has this encompassed so much. It makes a crucial difference to philosophy. Secondly when we recast philosophy's high level concepts in more concrete terms it becomes possible to discuss them without confusion. This is the method of this book. There is much of interest for the theologian too. Legendary film director Ingmar Bergman once wrote: 'What will happen to us who want to believe but can not? His can not had to do with what Professor Karen Barad calls the hegemony of physics. Everything briefly details why it is impossible in fact to believe in a closed universe of cause and effect.

This volume is based on the ongoing studies on post-Avicennian philosophy in the context of naturalising philosophy and science in Islam from the 12th to the 14th century, a topic that deserves the special attention of historians of Islamic intellectual history. The contributors address the following questions using case studies: What was philosophy all about from the 12th to the 14th century and how did Muslim scholars react to it during the period under consideration? The present volume approaches complex philosophical topics from different angles and is structured around six main sections: 1. Historical and social approaches to philosophy; 2. Knowing the unknown; 3. God, man and the physical world; 4. Universals; 5. Logic and intellect; and 6. Anthropomorphism and incorporealism.

This book provides a comprehensive study of the origins of seminal early modern debates on the certainty and ontology of mathematics. It analyzes Alessandro Piccolomini's De certitudine mathematicarum (1547), a work that ignited widespread controversy by challenging the scientific status of mathematics. The study delves into Piccolomini's logical doctrines, his philosophy of mathematics, and his perspectives on the relationship between mechanics and natural philosophy. Special attention is given to Piccolomini's ancient and medieval sources, the 16th-century rediscovery of Proclus in Euclid, and the influence of Priscian's in de anima.

This book presents a groundbreaking study of the Italian philosopher and scientist Blasius of Parma (1350–1416) for the first time in English. It presents key elements of his commentary on aristotle's physics both through interpretive analysis and edited texts the main interpretive claim is that blasius is an early mechanical philosopher it shows this by studying six carefully selected aspects of his physics these six aspects are blasius 1 use of mechanics science of weights 2 analysis of causality 3 account of motion 4 analysis of rarefaction and condensation 5 view of artifacts and 6 the use of a new analytical language in physics authors of the interpretive essays are erik Åkerlund joël biard henrik lagerlund and sylvain roudaut intellectuals rarely make a significant impact on one field of scholarship let alone several yet amos funkenstein 1937 1995 displayed an intellectual range that encompassed several disciplines and broke new ground across seemingly impenetrable scholarly boundaries the philosophy of history from antiquity to modernity medieval and early modern history of science medieval scholasticism jewish history in all of its periods these are all areas in which he made lasting contributions thinking impossibilities brings together funkenstein's colleagues friends and former students to engage with important aspects of his intellectual legacy funkenstein's diverse interests were bound together by common figures of thought especially the search for pre modern intellectual groundings of modern ideas and how the seeming impossibilities of one historical moment might become positive resources of conceptual construction and development in another the essays in this volume take up major themes in european intellectual history and examine them through the unique lens that funkenstein himself employed during his career of particular interest are ways in which topics of jewish history are engaged with the larger field of the history of ideas in the west richly interdisciplinary and full of fresh insights thinking impossibilities is a fitting tribute to an important twentieth century scholar
