ferrara s book is an introduction to writing as a process of revelation but it s also a celebration of these things still undeciphered and many other tantalising mysteries besides the spectator this book tells the story of our greatest invention or it almost does almost because while the story has a beginning in fact it has many beginnings not only in mesopotamia 3 100 years before the birth of christ but also in china egypt and central america and it certainly has a middle one that snakes through the painted petroglyphs of easter island through the great machines of empires and across the desks of inspired brilliant scholars the end of the story remains to be written the invention of writing allowed humans to create a record of their lives and to persist past the limits of their lifetimes in the shadows and swirls of ancient inscriptions we can decipher the stories they sought to record but we can also tease out the timeless truths of human nature of our ceaseless drive to connect create and be remembered the greatest invention chronicles an uncharted journey one filled with past flashes of brilliance present day scientific research and the faint fleeting echo of writing s future professor silvia ferrara a modern day adventurer who travels the world studying ancient texts takes us along with her we touch the knotted coloured strings of the incan khipu and consider the case of the phaistos disk ferrara takes us to the cutting edge of decipherment where high powered laser scanners bring tears to an engineer s eye and further still to gaze at the outline of writing s future the greatest invention lifts the words off every page and changes the contours of the world around us just keep reading the greatest invention is a celebration not of achievements but of moments of illumination and the most important thing in the world our desire to be understood tls
