a first encounter with art is like meeting a stranger it opens you to new ideas people places and parts of yourself in art insight conversations with cultures fanchon silberstein delves into the first known art and explores what it can reveal about how its makers saw the world and how contemporary artists can help us to see our own the result is equal parts an ode to the joy of artful engagement a how to for anyone interested in understanding art and culture and a journey around the world from prehistory to the present day readers confront strangeness through observation description and conversation and are given the skills to understand cross cultural divisions and perceive diverse ways of interpreting the world organized by ideas rather than history chronology or cultures the book presents dialogues imagining interactions between paintings created centuries apart and describing discussions among students learning the role of art in conflict resolution by emphasizing the relationship between viewer and image art insight urges readers to discover meaning in their own ways and offers questions that lead them into profound connections with works of art and the cultures behind them

truth is in trouble in response this book presents a new conception of truth it recognizes that prominent philosophers have questioned whether the idea of truth is important some have asked why we even need it their questions reinforce broader trends in western society where many wonder whether or why we should pursue truth indeed some pundits say we have become a post truth society yet there are good reasons not to embrace the cultural zeitgeist or go with the philosophical flow reasons to regard truth as a substantive and socially significant idea this book explains why first it argues that propositional truth is only one kind of truth an important kind but not all important then it shows how propositional truth belongs to the more comprehensive process of truth as a whole this process is a dynamic correlation between human fidelity to societal principles and a life giving disclosure of society the correlation comes to expression in distinct social domains of truth where either propositional or nonpropositional truth is primary the final chapters lay out five such domains science politics art religion and philosophy anyone who cares about the future of truth in society will want to read this pathbreaking book a call for solidarity and renewal in the arts and the academy
