in our increasingly polarized society there are constant calls for compromise for coming together for many these are empty talking points for lucy moore they are a life s work as an environmental mediator she has spent the past quarter century resolving conflicts that appeared utterly intractable here she shares the most compelling stories of her career offering insight and inspiration to anyone caught in a seemingly hopeless dispute moore has worked on wide ranging issues from radioactive waste storage to loss of traditional grazing lands more importantly she has worked with diverse groups and individuals ranchers environmental activists government agencies corporations tribal groups and many more after decades spent at the negotiating table she has learned that a case does not turn on facts legal merit or moral superiority it turns on people through ten memorable stories she shows how issues of culture personality history and power affect negotiations and she illustrates that equitable solutions depend on a healthy group dynamic both the mediator and opposing parties must be honest vulnerable open and respectful easier said than done but moore proves that subtle shifts can break the logjam and reconcile even the most fiercely warring factions this book should be especially appealing to anyone concerned with environmental conflicts and also to students in environmental studies political science and conflict resolution and to academics and professionals in mediation and conflict resolution fields

this highly readable book addresses how to teach effective communication in science the first part of the book provides accessible context and theory about communicating science well and is written by experts the second part focuses on the practice of teaching communication in science with nuts and bolts lesson plans direct from the pens of practitioners the book includes over 50 practice chapters each focusing on one or more short teaching activities to target a specific aspect of communication such as writing speaking and listening implementing the activities is made easy with class run sheets tips and tricks for instructors signposts to related exercises and theory chapters and further resources theory chapters help build instructor confidence and knowledge on the topic of communicating science the teaching exercises can be used with science students at all levels of education in any discipline and curriculum the only limitation is a wish to learn to communicate better targeted at science faculty members this book aims to improve and enrich communication teaching within the science curriculum so that science graduates can communicate better as professionals in their discipline and future workplace the world increasingly relies on groundwater resources for drinking water and the provision of food for a growing population the utilization of aquifer systems also extends beyond freshwater supply to include other resources such as heat extraction and the storage and disposal of substances unlike other books about conflict resolution and negotiations over water resources this volume is unique in focusing exclusively on conflicts over groundwater and aquifers the author explores the specific challenges presented by these hidden resources which are shown to be very different from those posed by surface water resources whereas surface watersheds are static groundwater boundaries are value laden and constantly changing during development the book describes the various issues surrounding the governance and management of these resources and the various parties involved in conflicts and negotiations over them through first hand accounts from a practitioner skilled in both process and substance as a groundwater professional and professional mediator the book offers options for addressing the challenges and issues through a transdisciplinary approach water for the environment from policy and science to implementation and management provides a holistic view of environmental water management offering clear links across disciplines that allow water managers to face mounting challenges the book highlights current challenges and potential solutions helping define the future direction for environmental water management in addition it includes a significant review of current literature and state of knowledge providing a one stop resource for environmental water managers presents a multidisciplinary approach that allows water managers to make connections across related disciplines such as hydrology ecology law and economics links science to practice for environmental flow researchers and those that implement and manage environmental water on a daily basis includes case studies to demonstrate key points and address implementation issues more justice more peace when peacemakers are advocates gives voice to the conundrum of how mediators and other impartial third party intervenors can revisit their roles in turbulent times designed to be used by conflict practitioners mediators facilitators negotiators and those in other professions where dealing with injustice is a constant struggle the book's contributions show that impartial parties can be advocates for justice in this engaging collection of personal stories seasoned mediators show how they have worked to help justice emerge in or as a result of conflicts in families institutions organizations and communities and across geographic boundaries from the streets of baltimore and charlottesville to karachi and berlin we hear of divided communities terrible losses relational wounds that appear to be beyond healing we hear also of courage compassion imagination and heart these conflict practitioners are paving the way for others to see beyond conventional limits on the practice of mediation essential reading for students and practitioners alike this work continues a much needed conversation around the future of the conflict resolution field and will be an inspiration to anyone who wants to make a difference in the world
