chick lit is the marketing label attributed to a surge of books published in the wake of helen fielding's Bridget Jones's Diary (1996) and Candace Bushnell's Sex and the City (1997) branded by their pink or pastel coloured book covers chick lit novels have been a highly successful and ubiquitous product of women's popular culture since the late 1990s. This study traces the evolution of chick lit not only as a genre of popular fiction but as a cultural phenomenon. It complicates the genealogy of the texts by situating them firmly in the context of age-old debates about female literary creation and by highlighting the dynamics of the popular fiction market, offering a convincing dissection of the formula which lies at the heart of chick lit as well as in-depth analyses of a number of chick lit titles ranging from classic to more recent and edgier texts. This book yields new insights into a relatively young field of academic study; its close readings provide astute assessments of chick lit's notoriously skewed representational politics, especially with regard to sexuality and ethnicity, which feed into current discussions about postfeminism. Moreover, the study makes a unique contribution to the scholarly debate of chick lit by including an analysis of the online fan communities the genre has fostered. The cultural politics of chick lit weaves a sound methodological network drawing on reader response, criticism, feminist, gender and queer theory, affect studies and whiteness studies. This book is an accessible and engaging study for anyone interested in postfeminism and popular culture.

Romantik journal for the study of Romanticisms is a multidisciplinary journal dedicated to the study of Romantic era cultural productions and concepts. The journal promotes innovative research across disciplinary borders; it aims to advance new historical discoveries, forward-looking theoretical insights and cutting-edge methodological approaches. The articles range over the full variety of cultural practices, including the written word, visual arts, history, philosophy, religion and theatre during the Romantic period (c. 1780–1840), but contributions to the discussion of pre- or post-Romantic representations are also welcome since the Romantic era was characterized by an emphasis on the vernacular. The title of the journal has been chosen to reflect the Germanic root of the word, but the journal is interested in all European Romanticisms and not least the connections and disconnections between them. Hence the use of the plural in the subtitle. Romantik is a peer-reviewed journal supported by the Nordic Board for Periodicals in the Humanities and Social Sciences (NOPS).
