object relations and self psychology are two leading schools of psychological thought discussed in social work classrooms and applied by practitioners to a variety of social work populations yet both groups have lacked a basic manual for teaching and reference until now for them. Dr. Eda G. Goldstein's book fills a void on two fronts. Part I provides a readable systematic and comprehensive review of object relations and self psychology while Part II gives readers a friendly step by step description and illustration of basic treatment techniques for educators. This textbook offers a learned and accessible discussion of the major concepts and terminology, treatment principles, and the relationship of object relations and self psychology to classic Freudian theory. Practitioners find within these pages treatment guidelines for such varied problems as illness and disability, the loss of a significant other, and such special problems as substance abuse, child maltreatment, and couple and family disruptions. In a single volume, Dr. Goldstein has met the complex challenges of education and clinical practice.

What is it about the multiple dimensions of person, environment, and time that social workers need to understand? How do diversity and inequality play a role in human behavior? How does our biology, spirituality, and psychology impact behavior? And finally, what can we learn about how social institutions, families, groups, organizations, and communities impact the vast range of human behaviors? The third edition of this powerful text aims to examine these dimensions by expanding on these important questions. In this text, you will meet social workers and clients from a variety of work settings and situations who bring the passion and power of social work to life through engaging case studies. Found throughout the text, these case studies help apply the latest theory and research to real life practice situations. The third edition offers new case studies and is thoroughly updated and revised to reflect recent census data, developing trends, and cutting edge research on human behavior.
