this book provides a crosscutting interdisciplinary account of how the disintegrated global subsistence economy circa 1800 has transformed into a global complex delivering unprecedented levels of material production and consumption applying major findings from economics history historiography and sociology as well as from anthropology psychology politics and environmental studies the analysis tracks the ways in which changes in society including social structures values and forces have changed individuals including conceptions of race gender and identity and vice versa these changes have simultaneously homogenised and diversified societies and individuals in distinct but sometimes contradictory ways opening up many possible worlds from an individual and group perspective yet the scale and pace of change has also led to increasing existential challenges the narrative consists of 30 chapters organized into 10 subsets of 3 one chapter on a relevant core idea one chapter focused on historical narrative and titled after a representative year and one chapter on a relevant associated crosscutting theme major regional and topical discussions are provided with special attention paid to business and organisational change and developing world scholarship small discussion boxes focusing on illustrative cases and details are presented throughout the book the last chapter contains overarching conclusions this book gives a definite contribution to a wide ranging reflection on the medieval parish and the secular clergy considered within a long term chronological framework and a wide geographical scope that allows the analysis and confrontation of case studies from the iberian kingdoms northern france italian piedmont lombardy flanders transylvania and north of the holy roman empire the chapters published in this book tell of dynamics of social religious and cultural exclusion and inclusion within lay communities of the constitution of family elites and parish confraternities it shows the composition and the recruitment rationales of the parish clergy and of some ecclesiastical chapters with a duty of cura animarum it examines the relations of the churches and parochial clergy with more prominent secular and regular ecclesiastical institutions in the context of the establishment and exercise of the right of patronage finally it explores the role of the secular clergy in the application of justice based on the characterization of their cultural and juridical formation concentrating on the years 1953-64 this history describes how north korea became more despotic even as other communist countries underwent de-stalinization the author's principal new source is the hungarian diplomatic archives which contain extensive reporting on kim il sung and north korea thoroughly informed by research on the period in the soviet and eastern european archives and by recently published scholarship much of the story surrounds kim il sung his korean nationalism and eagerness for korean autarky his efforts to balance the need for foreign aid and his hope for an independent foreign policy and what seems to be his good sense of timing in doing so in internal rivals without attracting soviet retaliation through a series of comparisons not only with the ussr but also with albania romania yugoslavia china and vietnam the author highlights unique features of north korean communism during the period szalontai covers ongoing effects of japanese colonization the experiences of diverse korean factions during world war ii and the weakness of the communist party in south korea
