this book deals with the historic transition to democracy in south africa and its impact upon crime and punishment it examines how the problem of crime has emerged as a major issue to be governed in post apartheid south africa having undergone a dramatic transition from authoritarianism to democracy from a white minority to black majority government south africa provides rich material on the role that political authority and challenges to it play in the construction of crime and criminality as such the study is about the socio cultural and political significance of crime and punishment in the context of a change of regime the work uses the south african case study to examine a question of wider interest namely the politics of punishment and race in neoliberalizing regimes it provides interesting and illuminating empirical material to the broader debate on crime control in post welfare neoliberalizing post transition polities the size and scope of the global forced migration crisis are unprecedented almost 66 million people worldwide have been forced from home by conflict if recent trends continue this figure could increase to between 180 and 320 million people by 2030 this global crisis already poses serious challenges to economic growth and risks to stability and national security as well as an enormous human toll affecting tens of millions of people these issues are on track to get worse without significant course correction soon the forced migration issues confronted today will seem simple decades from now yet efforts to confront the crisis continue to be reactive in addressing these and other core issues the united states should broaden the scope of its efforts beyond the tactical and reactive to see the world through a more strategic lens colored by the challenges posed and opportunities created by the forced migration crisis at home and abroad csis convened a diverse task force in 2017 to study the global forced migration crisis this report is a result of those findings
