after four months of intense fighting the war in flanders between german and british soldiers fell silent on christmas eve 1914 the soldiers started singing instead of shooting on christmas day they came out of their trenches and met in no man s land some chased rabbits some played football this true story is about two footballers and soldiers one saxon and one scot who were in units that played a match in a field between the french villages houplines and frelinghien scotsman jimmy coyle had played professional football before the war saxon albert schmidt played in the third team for his local club on christmas afternoon they each got the chance to defeat their opponents without weapons pehr thermaenius has tracked both jimmy s and albert s stories through military archives from mobilization in august to the hard frozen mud in that field in flanders that became a football field on christmas day the story of the football match is a light in the darkness as the world remembers the tragic waste of a hundred years ago using newly available documentation this book addresses the enduring themes in the historiography of the german communist party kpd central to the study is the question to what extent could moscow dominate the german communist party and movement by emphasising the specific saxon context the kpd s political development is detailed as in fact a tale of two parties the centralised leadership and organisational structures and the predominantly local influences governing the membership s political orientations the kpd leadership s drive to create a monolithic stalinist party in the face of diverse local conditions ultimately burnt out the party s most active members with devastating impact on political campaigning above all during the rise of the nazis the intensity of the factional feud among ordinary members is explained in terms of how local communists resisted or supported the leadership s relatively moderate or sectarian tactics depending on the conditions they experienced at first hand the book s treatment of political campaigning focuses on the local level detailing how the leadership s often unrealistic and contradictory objectives limited the kpd s wider influence on the regional political system
