metaphors are ubiquitously used in the humanities to bring the tangibility of the concrete world to the elaboration of abstract thought drawing on this cognitive function of metaphors this collection of essays focuses on the evocative figures of the gateway and the wall to reflect on the state of postcolonial studies some chapters on such topics as maze making in canada and the berlin wall in the writings of new zealand authors foreground the modes of articulation between literal borders and emotional dis connections while others examine how artefacts ranging from personal letters to clothes may be conceptualized as metaphorical gateways and walls that lead or conversely regulate access to specific forms of cultural expression and knowledge following this line of metaphorical thought postcolonial studies itself may be said to function as either barrier or pathway to further modes of enquiry this much is suggested by two complementary sets of contributions on the one hand those that contend that the canonical centre periphery paradigm and the related writing back model have prevented scholars from recognizing the depth and magnitude of cross cultural influences between civilizations on the other those that argue that the scope of traditional postcolonial models may be fruitfully widened to include territories such as post imperial turkey a geographical and cultural gateway between east and west that features in several of the essays included in this collection ultimately all of the contributions testify to the fact that postcolonial studies is a field whose borders must be constantly redrawn and whose paradigms need to be continually reshaped and rebuilt to remain relevant in the contemporary world in other words the collection s varied approaches suggest that the discipline itself is permanently under construction readers are therefore invited to perform a critical inspection of the postcolonial construction site contributors vera alexander elisabeth bekens devon campbell hall simran chadha carmen concilio margaret daymond marta dvořák claudia duppé elena furlanetto gareth griffiths john c hawley sissy helff marie herbillion deepika marya bronwyn mills padmini mongia golnar nabizadeh gerhard stilz
