the all world gayatri pariwar is a modern religious movement that enjoys wide popularity in north india particularly among the many stem workers who joined after becoming disillusioned with their lucrative but unfulfilling private sector careers founded in the mid twentieth century the gayatri pariwar works to popularize practices inspired by ancient religious texts and breaks with convention by framing these practices as the foundation of a universal spirituality the movement appeals to science in its advocacy of these practices claiming that they have medical benefits that constitute proof that rational people around the world should find persuasive should these practices become sufficiently widespread the belief is that humanity will enter a new satyug or golden age in the science of satyug daniel heifetz focuses on how religion and science are objects of intense emotion that help to constitute identities weaving engaging ethnographic anecdotes together with readings of gayatri pariwar literature heifetz interprets this material in light of classic and contemporary theory the result is a significant contribution to current conversations about the globalized middle classes and the entanglement of religion and science that will appeal to anyone interested in understanding these aspects of life in modern india

this book examines nineteenth century religious movements and discourses in india concentrating on the philosophy propounded by swami vivekananda the book explores the relation between nationalism and modernity in a colonial world the festival of indra details the textual and performative history of an important south asian festival and its role in the development of classical hinduism drawing on various genres of sanskrit textual sources especially the epic mahābhārata the book highlights the innovative ways that this annual public festival has supported the stable royal power responsible for the sponsorship of these texts more than just a textual project however the book devotes significant ethnographic attention to the only contemporary performance of this festival that adheres to the classical sanskrit record the indrajatra of kathmandu nepal here indra s tall pole remains the festival s focal point though its addition of the royal blessing by kumari the living goddess of nepal and the regular presence of the fierce god bhairav show several significant ways that ritual agents have re constructed this festival over the past two thousand years
