this work is an intensive study of certain facets of social and intellectual life in bengal between 1872 and 1905 particularly hindu revivalism the period under discussion represents significant progress in the area of social and religious reform as well as a period which witnessed hostile attitudes towards such reforms this is probably the first major work concerning the controversy that surrounded the brahmo marriage bill of 1868 72 and the consent bill of 1890 92 the major source material for this book comprises contemporary bengali literature including essays newspaper articles and correspondence novels short stories drama and poetry though this study purports to be a history of intellectual life in bengal and the broader intellectual trends and movements it is largely an examination of certain developments centred in or around calcutta seeks to acquaint the readers about the real position of indian muslims covers babri masjid demolition and other developments 3 chapters conclusions bibliography 7 appendices and an index this book tells the story of two strange bedfellows the postcolonial left and the hindu right it argues that the postcolonial left s relentless attacks on the epistemic violence of western norms of rationality and modernity are providing the conceptual vocabulary for the hindu right s project of decolonizing the hindu mind the postcolonial project of provincializing europe is widely shared by the hindu right and harks back to the hindu revivalist movements of the nineteenth century this book argues that postcolonial thought in india bears a strong family resemblance in context and content with the conservative revolution that brought down the weimar republic in germany before the nazi takeover both an intellectual history of india through the last half century and a critical engagement with postcolonial theory this book will be of interest to scholars of south asia and the humanities and social sciences at large this work is an intensive study of certain facets of social and intellectual life in bengal between 1872 and 1905 particularly hindu revivalism the period under discussion represents significant progress in the area of social and religious reform as well as a period which witnessed hostile attitudes towards such reforms bringing together fourteen papers this book gives new depth to our understanding of the aims and achievements of swami vivekananda it invites us to relate him to movements and individuals outside his native bengal it shows how modernizing trends in indian society wrestled with traditional features of hinduism such as caste and it links his religious and social ideals to thinkers and theologians in the west the book firmly distances swami vivekananda from chauvinist or communal misinterpretations of his work
