in middle class pentecostalism in argentina inappropriate spirits jens köhrsen offers an intriguing account of how the middle class relates to latin america s most vibrant religious movement based on pervasive field research this study suggests that pentecostalism stands in tension with the social imaginary of the middle class and is perceived as an inappropriate lower class practice as such middle class pentecostals negotiate the appropriateness of their religious belonging by demonstrating distinctive tastes and styles of pentecostalism abstaining from the expressiveness emotionality and strong spiritual practice that have marked the movement they create a milder and socially more acceptable form of pentecostalism increasingly turning into a middle class movement this style has the potential to embody the future shape of pentecostalism

the explosive growth of pentecostalism has radically transformed latin america s religious landscape within the last half century or so in a region where catholicism reigned hegemonic for centuries the expansion of pentecostalism has now resulted in a situation of religious pluralism and competition bearing much more resemblance to the united states than to the iberian motherlands furthermore the fierce competition from pentecostal churches has inspired significant renewals of latin american catholicism most notably the growth of a catholic charismatic movement however another and more recent source of religious pluralism and diversity in latin america is an increasing pluralization and diversification of pentecostalism itself and of the ways in which individual pentecostals exercise their faith by carefully exploring this diversification the book at hand breaks new ground in the literature on latin american christianity particular attention is focused on new ways of being pentecostal and on the consequences of recent transformations of christianity for individuals faith communities and societies more specifically the chapters of the book look into certain transformations of pentecostalism such as theological renewals and new kinds of religious competition between pentecostal churches a growing political and civic engagement of pentecostals an observed de institutionalization of pentecostal religious life and the negotiation individual pentecostal identities composed of multiple intra and extra ecclesial points of identification and the emergence of new generations of pentecostals children of pentecostal parents many of whom have higher levels of education and higher incomes than the previous generations within their churches in addition catholic responses to pentecostal competition are also addressed in several chapters of the book
