until now you've only heard one side of the story how abraham lincoln defeated the confederacy to end slavery but the truth involves a vast network of abolitionists who would keep fighting for freedom long after the end of the war here's the true story of the civil war and reconstruction from the african american perspective by 1850 africans had already been in the united states for nearly 300 years their labor created a strong economy and defined american society in profound ways but their rights nearly tore the country apart a century after its founding the beginning of the civil war marked a turning point the beginning of a public fight to recognize african americans as americans though much of this played out on the battlefield the real fight was going on in every corner of the country north and south free households and enslaved in the halls of government and secret meetings that fight didn't end when the south surrendered and young people were central to the way abolitionists envisioned the future from soldiers to public speakers to the underground railroad this is the true story of the african american experience of the civil war and reconstruction before the advent of the great mineral revolution in the latter half of the 19th century south africa was a sleepy colonial backwater whose unpromising landscape was seemingly devoid of any economic potential yet lying just beneath the dusty surface of the land lay the richest treasure trove of gold diamonds platinum coal and a host of other metals and minerals that has ever been discovered in one country it was the discovery and exploitation of first diamonds in 1870 and then gold in 1886 that proved the catalyst to the greatest mineral revolution the world has ever known which transformed south africa into the supreme industrialised power on the african continent here for the first time is the complete history of south africa's phenomenal mineral revolution spanning a period of more than 150 years from its earliest commercial beginnings to the present day incorporating seven of the major commodities that have been exploited digging deep describes the establishment and unparalleled growth of mining tracing the history of the industry from its humble beginnings where copper was first mined on a commercial basis in namaqualand in the cape colony in the early 1850s to the discovery and exploitation of the country's other major mineral commodities this is also the story of how mining gave rise to modern south africa and how it compelled the country to develop and progress the way in which it did it also incorporates the stories of the visionary men Cecil Rhodes Alfred Beit Barney Barnato Sir Ernest Oppenheimer Sammy Marks and Hans Merensky who pioneered and shaped the development of the industry on which modern South Africa was built now appearing in trade paperback original format one of the most appealing heroines to appear in the pages of a mystery library journal returning from Europe intrepid explorer Jade Del Cameron arrives in Kenya with bittersweet memories and the certainty that Africa is her home and Sam Featherstone the man she wants to share her life with when a letter arrives from America Jade hopes it's Sam sending word of his return instead it's a message written in the hand of her long dead fiancé asking why did you let me die when two men die under mysterious circumstances and Jade discovers that her old nemesis Lilith Worthy has escaped from prison the deaths and the letter form the most dangerous case Jade has ever faced pitting her against a ferocious crocodile and an even more deadly human killer

This book works across established categories of modernism and postcolonialism in order to radically revise the periods places and topics traditionally associated with anti colonialism and aesthetic experimentation in African literature the book is the first account of Olive Schreiner as a theorist and practitioner of modernist form advancing towards an emergent postcolonialism the book draws on and broadens discussions in and around the blossoming field of global modernist studies by interrogating the conventionally accepted genealogy of development that positions Europe and America as the sites of innovation it provides an original examination of the relationships between metaphor postcolonialism and modernist experimentation by showing how politically and aesthetically innovative African forms rely on allegorical structures in contrast to the symbolism dominant in Euro American modernism an original theoretical concept of the role of primitivism and allegory within the context of modernism and associated critical theory is proposed through the integration of postcolonial Marxist and ecocritical approaches to literature the book provides original readings of Schreiner's three novels Undine the story of an African farm and From Man to Man in light of the new theory of primitivism in African literature by directly addressing the issue of narrative form this argument is contextualised in relation to the work of other Southern African authors in whose writings the impact of Schreiner's politics and aesthetics can be traced these authors include J. M. Coetzee Nadine Gordimer Doris Lessing Solomon T. Plaatje and Zoe Wicomb amongst others this book brings the most current debates in modernist studies ecocriticism and primitivism into the field of postcolonial studies and contributes to a widening of the debates surrounding gender race empire and modernism
