Although the very notion of writing for the eyes was not new to the Spanish Golden Age, its ubiquitous presence during this period calls for rethinking of the traditional separation between the visual and the verbal in studies of Iberian culture. One of the most famous leaders of the Chicano civil rights movement, Rodolfo "Corky" Gonzales, was a multifaceted and charismatic figure. Bigger than life, he inspired his followers not only by taking direct political action but also by making eloquent speeches, writing incisive essays, and creating the kind of socially engaged poetry and drama that could be communicated easily through the barrios of Aztlán. Populated by Chicanos in the United States, Gonzales is the author of I Am Joaquín, an epic poem of the Chicano movement that lives on in film, sound recording, and hundreds of anthologies. Gonzales and other Chicanos established the Crusade for Justice, a Denver-based civil rights organization, school, and community center. In 1966, the school La Escuela Tlatelolco lives on today almost four decades after its founding. In Message to Aztlán, Dr. Antonio Esquibel, professor emeritus of Metropolitan State College of Denver, has compiled the first collection of Gonzales' diverse writings: the original I Am Joaquín (1976) along with a new Spanish translation, seven major speeches (1968-78), two plays, The Revolutionist and A Cross for Malcovio (1966-67), various poems written during the 1970s, and a selection of letters. These varied works demonstrate the evolution of Gonzales' thought on human and civil rights. Any examination of the Chicano movement is incomplete without this volume. Eight pages of photographs accompany the text.

In the 1970s, especially after Franco's death in 1975, Spanish cinema was bursting at the seams. Numerous film directors broke free from the ancient taboos which had reigned under the dictatorship; they introduced characters who through their bodies transgress the traditional borders of social, cultural, and sexual identities. Post-Franco cinema exhibits women, homosexuals, transsexuals, and delinquents in new and challenging ways. Under Franco's rule, all of these dissident bodies were lost; here they reflect new mythological figures inhabiting an idealised body form a prototypical body
