in the new woman in early twentieth century chinese fiction jin feng proposes that representation of the new woman in communist chinese fiction of the earlier twentieth century was paradoxically one of the ways in which male writers of the era explored negotiated and laid claim to their own emerging identity as modern intellectuals specifically feng argues that male writers such as lu xun yu dafu ba jin and mao dun created fictional women as mirror images of their own political inadequacy but that at the same time this was also an egocentric ploy to affirm and highlight the modernity of the male author this gender biased attitude was translated into reality when women writers emerged whereas unfair gender biased criticism all but stifled the creative output of bing xin fang yuanjun and lu yin ding ling s dogged attention to narrative strategy allowed her to maintain subjectivity and independence in her writings that is until all writers were forced to write for the collective feng addresses both the general and the specialized audience of fiction in early twentieth century chinese fiction in three ways for scholars of the may fourth period feng redresses the emphasis on the simplistic gender neutral representation of the new women by re reading selected texts in the light of marginalized discourse and by an analysis of the evolving strategies of narrative deployment for those working in the area of feminism and literary studies feng develops a new method of studying the representation of chinese women through an interrogation of narrative permutations ideological discourses and gender relationships and for studies of modernity and modernization the author presents a more complex picture of the relationships of modern chinese intellectuals to their cultural past and of women writers to a literary tradition dominated by men

publisher description

originally published in 1983 this title lists and annotates reference sources which will help readers select primary materials useful in studies of the literary portraits of women and their societal roles the years 1961 to 1981 were set as boundaries for this volume because the author s initial research revealed that a twenty year span was a manageable unit because the novels published between those dates yielded abundant materials for such a reference work and because significant changes in the way portraits of adolescent females were being drawn took place during the period for example sex role stereotyping became a shade less prevalent young women's sexuality was discussed more forthrightly and some topics such as single women's pregnancies and lesbianism were treated more overtly sometimes less judgementally the book focuses on individuals writing in the 90s but also includes 12 classic authors e.g. Mark Twain, Louisa May Alcott, J.R.R.
